You will be so many things, and the one thing that I wish I'd known and want to say is, don't just be yourself. Be all of yourselves. Don't just live. Be that other thing connected to death.
Be life. Live all of your life.
Understand it, see it, appreciate it. And have fun.

James Stellar, Brandy Eggan, 2025-08-26 Higher education has a long history of transferring knowledge facts and theories into students minds However it has less of a history of providing students with direct experiences such as internships that lead to felt knowledge of the field and relevant skills It is this combination of academic and felt knowledge that fosters the growth students need which we refer to as professional wisdom This growth state is supported by basic neuroscience Humans possess a crowning achievement of evolution in the neocortex allowing us to perform amazing feats of cognitive symbolic logic such as language and planning Beneath the neocortex lies an older part of the brain that regulates emotional computation the limbic system This system provides a perspective of value helping us determine whether a plan or activity is beneficial Interestingly neuroscience shows that the limbic system reacts most strongly to actual experiences and it requires reflection to process these experiences into the higher cognitive regions of the brain When applied to higher education this insight suggests that combining academic study with hands on experiences such as cooperative learning and internships can lead to a lifelong career where students remain passionate and engaged A major paired with an enjoyable real world experience in college helps students connect knowledge with purpose fostering long term satisfaction and success While some individuals especially in academic administration refer to this as educating the whole student we describe it as cognitive emotional integration the foundation of professional wisdom In this book we explore the current experiences in higher education that foster this development from cooperative learning to internships and beyond We also offer two neuroscientists perspectives on how cognitive emotional integration aligns with the brain s natural processes With this understanding we believe colleges and universities have an obligation to their students to cultivate environments that challenge them both inside and outside the classroom Without this we risk graduating learners unprepared for the demands of the modern workforce Career Wisdom for College Students
