Visuals For The Language Classroom

Andrew Wright, Safia Haleem

Visuals For The Language Classroom:

Visuals for the Language Classroom Andrew Wright, 1991 Visuals for the Language Classroom Andrew Wright, Safia Haleem, 1991 This series for teachers and teacher trainers gives sound straightforward advice on good teaching methods and practical suggestions for lessons and activities A practical book full of examples and visuals that can be made with a minimum of time money and artistic talent Pictures for Language Learning Andrew Wright, 1989-11-16 This richly illustrated book provides a valuable guide to the role of pictures and other visual materials in language teaching It brings together a wealth of ideas on how to use pictures in a wide range of language learning situations The first section discusses the contribution visuals can make to all the classroom settings in providing real opportunities for students to communicate whether they are working as a class in groups or in pairs Sections B and C contain over 200 practical suggestions for picture generated language work These make use of visual materials which are readily available to teachers anywhere or illustrations which have been kept simple so that they can be copied easily The activities can be integrated into all stages of the language teaching process and advice is given on how to adapt the ideas to suit different teaching environments The final section describes the process of setting up a picture library and offers guidance on where to begin looking for visuals how to categorise pictures and different methods of storage Visuals in Foreign Language Teaching Sayed Mustafa Zewary, 2011 This study investigates the effectiveness of visuals in the language classroom Two types of visual aids commonly used in the language classroom video and still pictures are used to elicit narratives from L2 English speakers and these narratives are subsequently compared The data come from eleven international students from a university English Language Program who voluntarily participated in two separate 15 minute interviews In each interview session they were shown either a series of pictures or a video both depicting a story Upon completion of the presentation of each visual participants were asked a prompt question and their narration of the events portrayed in the visuals recorded The narratives were transcribed and analyzed in order to test 1 if still pictures and video are equally effective in eliciting elaboration in the narratives defined in this case as the number of new referents introduced and the number of adjective and verb types produced and 2 if exposure to still pictures and video elicit narrations of similar length Both kinds of visuals stimulated learners to create narratives and elaborate on what had been shown in them The video task elicited narratives roughly 10% longer than the picture task in regards to the raw number of words When linguistic factors were compared participants introduced new referents at comparable rates in both tasks while they employed 10% more verb types in the video task Additionally the series of still pictures prompted participants to employ a much higher number of adjective types These observations suggest that a series of still pictures are an effective alternative for video for eliciting narratives This study provides support for the use of still pictures as an equivalent to videos in situations where videos are less accessible in language classrooms due to lack of technological access Visualisation and Linguaging for English Language Teaching and Learning in an Online

Primary School Classroom in China Dandan Chen,2023-08-10 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2023 in the subject Pedagogy Intercultural Pedagogy grade pass without corrections University of Edinburgh Moray House School of Education and Sport course PhD Education language English abstract This study investigates the role of visualisation in language education to explore a visual strategy for learning that is driven by the goal of deeper learning for all learners built on theoretical principles of pluriliteracies development learner agency and multimodality The integration of these concepts has significantly impacted the rationale of the research foci and therefore lies at the heart of this pioneering study that connects pluriliteracies with English language teaching and learning in a primary school in China In order to investigate the potential role of visuals in English language learning classrooms this study was conducted by designing and teaching visual related thematic content to three small groups of English younger learners in China and interviewing them using their own preferred online platform Participants were encouraged to create visuals for example drawings to demonstrate their thinking of abstract conceptual knowledge and scaffold their communication with peers and the teacher researcher Such integration of visual creation with language learning is facilitated by learner teacher Learning Conversations constructing a shared learning space owned and led by learners which may offer a clear steer in the direction of promoting learner agency and achieving the quality of learning thereby complementing traditional ways of teaching in China and beyond Emphasised by research and studies regarding pedagogies for quality and successful learning Coyle Meyer 2017 the long established means of measuring learning using tests and examinations may not be sufficient for building learners sense of achievement and agentic mindset to direct their own learning Given the importance attached to PISA league tables on a global basis the quality of education is at the core of socio political concerns offering alternative pedagogic thinking to education systems that define passing examinations as the main criterion of academic success Note from the editor The PowerPoint presentation in the appendix had to be edited due to copyright concerns

English Language Teaching Research in the Middle East and North Africa Sahbi Hidri,2018-11-23 This edited collection examines a range of English Language Teaching ELT research in the Middle East and North Africa MENA While the MENA context has witnessed considerable change in recent years it has so far been under represented in ELT research at both the regional and the international level This book aims to fill that gap by surveying the current state of the field examining in detail a range of issues and concepts and suggesting future directions for further research It will be of interest to ELT researchers and practitioners in general not just those based in MENA contexts themselves

Handbook of Research on Cultivating Literacy in Diverse and Multilingual Classrooms Neokleous, Georgios,Krulatz, Anna,Farrelly, Raichle,2020-03-27 Literacy has traditionally been associated with the linguistic and functional ability to read and write Although literacy as a fundamental issue in education has received abundant attention in the last few decades most publications to date have focused on monolingual classrooms Language teacher educators have a responsibility to prepare teachers to be culturally responsive and flexible so they can adapt to the range of settings and variety of learners they will encounter in their careers while also bravely questioning the assumptions they are encountering about multilingual literacy development and instruction The Handbook of Research on Cultivating Literacy in Diverse and Multilingual Classrooms is an essential scholarly publication that explores the multifaceted nature of literacy development across the lifespan in a range of multilingual contexts Recognizing that literacy instruction in contemporary language classrooms serving diverse student populations must go beyond developing reading and writing abilities this book sets out to explore a wide range of literacy dimensions It offers unique perspectives through a critical reflection on issues related to power ownership identity and the social construction of literacy in multilingual societies As a resource for use in language teacher preparation programs globally this book will provide a range of theoretical and practical perspectives while creating space for pre and in service teachers to grapple with the ideas in light of their respective contexts The book will also provide valuable insights to instructional designers curriculum developers linguists professionals academicians administrators researchers and students
