Vascular Dynamics:

Vascular Dynamics N. Westerhof, D.R. Gross, 2013-11-11 The function of the vascular system is to transport oxygen and nutrients to the cells and to remove carbon dioxide and metabolites It also transports hormones and locally produced neurohumoral substances which in part regulate its own function These interrelationships are essential to homeostasis The vascular system is not an assembly of simple elastic tubes but a dynamic system with many external and intrinsic regulatory mechanisms The endothelium plays a major role in the intrinsic regulation of the system The system is also often subject to disease processes of which atherosclerosis is the most important As a result of atherosclerosis and other disease processes replacement of vessels with prosthetic devices may be required to reestablish adequate tissue blood flow It is therefore imperative to gain insight into the details of vascular function especially the dynamics and the endothelium the processes of atherosclerosis development the vascular prosthetic possibilities and last but not least the interrelationships between these sub specialties

Frontiers in Biomechanics G. W. Schmid-Schönbein, S.L.-Y. Woo, B.W. Zweifach, 2012-12-06 Biomechanics is concerned with the response of living matter to forces and its study has taken long strides in recent years In the past two decades biomechanics has brought improved understanding of normal and patho physiology of organisms at molecular cellular and organ levels it has helped developing medical diagnostic and treatment procedures it has guided the design and manufacturing of prosthesis and instruments it has suggested the means for improving human performance in the workplace sports and space it has made us understand trauma in war and in peace Looking toward the future we see many more areas of possible development such as reduction in heart diseases and atherosclerosis improved vascular assist and replacement devices including a permanent artificial heart enhanced oxygen transport in the lung understanding and control of growth and changes mechanics of neuromuscular control and robotics prevention of joint degeneration permanent total joint replacements prevention of low back pain workplace designs to enhance productivity ambulation systems for the handicapped fully implantable hearing aids improved understanding of the mechanisms for permanent disability injuries identification of factors such as alcohol use and disease influence on impact tolerance improved cellular bioreactor designs mechanics of DNA and its application in biotechnology Obviously the attainment of these prospects will greatly improve the quality of human life and reduce the costs of living This list is from a report by the U S National Committee on Biomechanics April 1985
