Subversive Beauty - Victorian Bodies of Expression Lisa Michelle Hoffman-Reyes, 2014 Abstract My dissertation seeks to bring aesthetics into conversation with the epistemological concerns of three Victorian texts in response to the prevalence of beautiful feminine faces and bodies in Victorian texts their presence amplified through the use of copious description I examines the ways that Thomas Hardy Oscar Wilde and Robert Browning complicate traditional contemporary assumptions regarding behaviors and moralities through their constructions of feminine beauty These writers challenge and dispute a variety of Victorian social norms imposed upon both men and women most notably the mandate to adhere to prescribed behaviors that codify in order to regulate gender normativity My project begins with a historical review cataloging beauty s constructions and uses Then in Chapter two I argue that Thomas Hardy elevates imperfect women through descriptions of their natural beauty in order to question and reject popular constructions of proper femininity Chapter Three transitions from presentations of subversive feminine beauty offering a fairly straightforward disputation of contemporary values in Hardy to shedding gender constraints in Oscar Wilde as the author disputes gender rigidity by crafting beautiful men with feminine desires and by reassessing the desirability of women Finally Chapter Four notes the ways that Robert Browning artistically subverts Victorian literary conventions by rejecting the typical practice of objectifying women by his near total absence of descriptions of female features and by placing his emphasis on the spiritual life of his heroines

Liturgy, Theurgy, and Active Participation Kjetil Kringlebotten, 2023-09-08 Providing a metaphysical grounding for liturgical participation this book argues that active participation in the liturgy must be understood principally as our participation in God s act particularly in the act of Christ and only secondarily as our ritual involvement Utilizing Neoplatonist philosophy Kjetil Kringlebotten proposes that this should be understood in terms of theurgy which is the human participation in divine action which finds its consummation in the incarnation of Christ Without the incarnation all acts will remain extrinsic and imposed but acts can become real and intrinsic precisely because the incarnation makes possible true union with the divine a metaphysical union in distinction without confusion because this union is not extrinsic Through union with Christ as the one common focus of the divine human relation we can have true union with God and may offer true worship In order to make sense of active participation then we need to understand theology in theurgic terms where theurgy is understood not as a mechanical coercion of God but as a participation in His act in creation and through Christ as the true theurgist the master theurgist Whose work transforms our act and the liturgy
