The Video Source Book David J. WEINER, 1990 Digital Information for Patient Education, Volume II Xiaofei Zhang, Feng Guo, Paul H. Lee, 2026-02-16

This Research Topic is the second volume. Please see the first volume at Digital Information for Patient Education. Due to recent technological advancements, technologies such as online platforms, big data, live streaming, and artificial intelligence are leading the transformation of health medical information by aiding in the development of innovative healthcare information management models. Digital health information helps patients access health knowledge remotely, positively impacting their well-being. There is a large gap between the provision of digital health information and patient outcomes, particularly in how digital information is provided for better patient education. Understanding healthcare information is crucial for the digital transformation of health services. Patients need to fully comprehend the online healthcare information to manage their health effectively. However, certain medical knowledge, such as medical terminology, is generally difficult for patients to understand. We believe that digital technologies may bridge this gap as they provide various types and formats of information along with different methods of presentation to enrich the health information sharing process. Specifically, digital technologies enable patients to better understand health medical knowledge and take appropriate actions to manage their health. This Research Topic is interested in original contributions that conceptualize and contextualize the organization of digital health information to benefit patient understanding of online health medical knowledge. We welcome submissions that provide empirical evidence on leveraging digital technologies in healthcare, including mobile ICTs, big data, artificial intelligence, live streaming, and the design and deployment of new tools and techniques, as well as data analytics in healthcare for better patient understanding. We also encourage submissions that investigate theoretical frameworks and practical tools related to digital healthcare information, including the organization, display, and provision of health information. This research topic particularly encourages original research articles that address a range of topics, including but not limited to: Med tech, data-enabled technologies in information management for patient education, The role of mobile health, Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) in information sharing for patient education, Provision of health information based on big data, Application of artificial intelligence in patient education, Effectiveness of digital technologies in patient education, Innovative digital technologies to improve patient understanding of health information, Ethical and legal issues involving digital health information in patient education.

Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform, volume III Jian Chen,Xiaoyun Zeng,Zhiyong Zhang,Yasusei Kudo ,Trine Fink,2025-11-18 This Research Topic is part of the series of Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Volume I Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Volume II All over the world more than 80% of medical service and public health education are conducted by graduates from local regional medical schools Therefore these schools are facing the pressing demand for better health services principally due to population growth and greater public health awareness However the traditional medical education is failing to cope with these challenges largely because of didactic teaching methods fragmented curricula and passive learning which cannot train our students to become self directed lifelong learners and qualified healthcare workers We are also very aware that simply expanding the class size of medical schools and opening new medical schools cannot meet this demand The medical school educators thus implement a series of reform across every aspect of the medical education e g teaching content style and methodology which has been gradually deepened in many majors such as medicine nursing pharmacy and public health Otherwise the outbreak of 2019 novel coronavirus emphasizes the vital interplay of public health and medical education disciplines promoting the integration of public health content into medical education That is the better healthcare workers for the future should be responsible for not only disease diagnosis and treatment but also health promotion and disease prevention The COVID 19 pandemic reveals the urgent need for healthcare services worldwide that is outstripping the pace of healthcare workforce growth underlining the necessity of a paradigm shift in medical education Therefore the aim of the Research Topic is to provide a comprehensive overview of current reform attempts in education for healthcare workers mainly but not exclusively focusing on the high quality research studies carried out in local regional medical schools In addition it is being widely accepted that disease prevention and health promotion may be more effective in improving the health status of a population We thus greatly encourage contributions providing innovative methods and assessment of incorporation of core public health into the medical curricula Both ongoing and completed original research work is welcome Consequently areas to be covered in this Research Topic may include but are not limited to Situation and trends of public health research practice and policy Development and evaluation of public health education National and international medical education reform to produce well trained students and workers undergraduates and postgraduates local regional medical schools Implementation and evaluation of integrating public health content in the medical curricula
