Tainted Purity:

Tainted Purity Lorie O'Clare, 2005-03 There is nothing worse than a goddess who doesn't know she is one. Eternal life powers so strong they can change a man's existence are hidden from Bridget, lost in centuries of forgotten memories. Bridget Down has a good life working in her shop selling her crafts to local stores as well as donating them to the orphanage where she grew up. Other than the occasional pangs of loneliness that pass through her, she has no complaints. Well, almost no complaints. But something is missing in the jigsaw puzzle of her life, and it isn't just the hot and sweaty sex she dreams of and yearns for. When a mysterious man follows her, setting her pulse racing and hormones pumping, he forces her to remember a life she could never have imagined: a passionate and fiery love she could never have dreamed of, and a fight for her life that takes her to the pits of a hell where all her strength and newfound powers are needed to survive and overcome. Braze the strong and relentless lover who claimed her on an altar on a planet far away long ago has finally found her. This time, whether she likes it or not, he won't let her go. The battle for Bridget has begun. The Lusiad Luís de Camões, 1807

Turning Dreams to Chaos Tamara Hollins, 2011-10 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2003 in the subject American Studies Literature grade None Claremont Graduate University 233 entries in the bibliography language English abstract This work will reflect on the mutability of meaning in the female mulatto body as well as on the mutability of perception by acknowledging the erroneous nature of race and its concrete results by examining the valorization and undermining of racial essentialism and heterogeneity and by revealing passing as bound by the social and legal restraints related to the physical body even as it interrogates racial classifications. Specifically, this study will explore how some nineteenth-century modern and postmodern American narratives containing mulattoes and passing personas produce a resolution reiterating the structure of race or new subjectivities within or possibly without the color line. Through this exploration, the war between the homogenous Self and the different Other will play out. In an effort to unite a divided personality, the Other will counter attempts by the Self to maintain essentialism. The success lies not in the final outcome but in recognizing the subversive acts of the Other and the irrational tactics of the Self as continuously revealing the subjects as always already married and as surpassing mere essentialism into the multitudinous heterogeneous One. Still, this work realizes that essentialism has a place in heterogeneity even if essentialism is a logical error. Duality and conflict are inherent in heterogeneity or the multitudinous One. The key is not to eradicate in an essentialist manner one and not the other but to live in a state of awareness respecting and accepting those who knowingly choose to construct identities within or without the color line. Translation Series Pali Text Society, 1881 The City of Rope Alin Cristian, 2020-12-31 If someone had the tactile gift of finding painted prehistoric caves, he'd be torn apart between, on the one hand, talking others into following him and, on the other, crawling, wriggling, clawing, and sweating his way to the next trove. Alin Cristian sees in this the writer's condition: one works one's way to a vision encased as the latter always is in obstructing matter. As for the value of this vision, only one thing is certain those who have time to talk about it weren't graced with either the speleologist's feverish hands or with his sense of urgency Other caves clawed out of darkness by the same author include The Transcript Silvestralia and The Lowest Country
