Tulip House:

Tulipomania Mike Dash, 2010-02-10 A vivid narration of the history of the tulip from its origins on the barren windswept steppes of central Asia to its place of honor in the lush imperial gardens of Constantinople to its starring moment as the most coveted and beautiful commodity in Europe In the 1630s visitors to the prosperous trading cities of the Netherlands couldn't help but notice that thousands of normally sober hardworking Dutch citizens were caught up in an extraordinary frenzy of buying and selling The object of this unprecedented speculation was the tulip a delicate and exotic Eastern import that had bewitched horticulturists noblemen and tavern owners alike For almost a year rare bulbs changed hands for incredible and ever increasing sums until single flowers were being sold for more than the cost of a house Historians would come to call it tulipomania It was the first futures market in history and like so many of the ones that would follow it crashed spectacularly plunging speculators and investors into economic ruin and despair This colorful cast of characters includes Turkish sultans Yugoslav soldiers French botanists and Dutch tavern keepers all centuries apart historically and worlds apart culturally but with one thing in common tulipomania Gardening for amateurs, by F.D. Horner and G. Kidson Francis D'Altry Horner, 1886 Annual Report Ontario. Department of Agriculture and Food, 1912 Building the State: Architecture, Politics, and State Formation in Postwar Central Europe Virag Molnar, 2013-10-08 The built environment of former socialist countries is often deemed uniform and drab an apt reflection of a repressive regime Building the State peeks behind the grey facade to reveal a colourful struggle over competing meanings of the nation Europe modernity and the past in a divided continent Examining how social change is closely intertwined with transformations of the built environment this volume focuses on the relationship between architecture and state politics in postwar Central Europe using examples from Hungary and Germany Built around four case studies the book traces how architecture was politically mobilized in the service of social change first in socialist modernization programs and then in the postsocialist transition Building the State does not only offer a comprehensive survey of the diverse political uses of architecture in postwar Central Europe but is the first book to explore how transformations of the built environment can offer a lens into broader processes of state formation and social change
