Unveiling Men Wendy DeSouza, 2019-01-25 For years Iranian academics writers and scholars have equated national development and progress with the reform of men's sexual behavior Modern intellectuals repudiated native sexuality in Iran just as their European counterparts in France and Germany did arguing that transforming male identity was essential to the recovery of the nation DeSouza offers an alternate narrative of modern Iranian masculinity as an attempt to redraw social hierarchies among men Moving beyond rigid portrayals of Islamic patriarchy and female oppression she analyzes debates about manhood and maleness in early twentieth century Iran particularly around questions of race and sexuality DeSouza presents the larger implications of Pahlavi hegemonic masculinity in creating racialized male subjects and productive sexualities In addition she explores a cross pollination with Europe identifying how the East shaped visions of European male identity Special Theme: Twentieth-century Iran ,2003 Twentieth-century Iran James A. Thorpe,1972

Women and the Political Process in Twentieth-Century Iran Parvin Paidar,1997-07-24 In a challenging and authoritative analysis of the role of Iranian women in the political process Parvin Paidar considers the ways they have been affected by the evolutionary and revolutionary transformations of twentieth century Iran In so doing she demonstrates how political reorganisation has of necessity redefined the position of women and that contrary to the view of conventional scholarship gender issues are fundamental to the political process in contemporary Iran The implications of the study bear on the broader issues of women in the Middle East and the developing countries generally Iran's Diverse Peoples

Combined Arms Warfare in the Twentieth Century Jonathan Mallory House,2001 For centuries the world has witnessed the development and use of increasingly complex and powerful military systems and technologies In the process the art of war has truly become the art of combined arms warfare in which infantry artillery air support intelligence and other key elements are all coordinated for maximum effect Nowhere has this trend been more visible than in the history of twentieth century warfare Originally published as an essential in house study for U S Army officers during the 1980s this much revised and expanded edition remains the most complete study available on the subject Rewritten with a much wider readership in mind it both retains its enormous practical utility for military professionals and provides a valuable and appealing introduction for scholars and general readers Jonathan House author of the original work brings the story of combined arms up to the present covering among other things Desert Storm the war in Chechnya and the rise of smart weapons and related technologies He traces the evolution of tactics weapons and organization in five major militaries American British German Russian and French over 100 years of warfare Revealing both continuities and contrasts within and between these fighting forces he also provides illuminating glimpses of Israeli and Japanese contributions to combined arms doctrine Expanding his insightful analysis of the world wars and the wars in Korea and Vietnam House also offers much new material focused on the post Vietnam period Throughout he analyzes such issues as command and control problems of highly centralized organizations the development of special operations forces advances in weapons technology including ballistic and anti ballistic missile systems the trade offs involved in using heavy versus light armed forces and the enduring obstacles to effective cooperation between air and land forces His strong critique of the air superiority propaganda that came out of the Gulf War is sure to spark some heated debates Rigorously comparative House s study addresses significant questions about how nations prepare for war learn or don t learn its harsh lessons and adapt to changing times and technologies Unique in the annals of the literature on warfare it will be the standard work on this subject for a long time to come

Remaking Women Lila Abu-Lughod,1998-07-01 Contrary to popular perceptions newly veiled women across the Middle East are just as much products and symbols of modernity as the upper and middle class women who courageously took off the veil almost a century ago To make this point these essays focus on the woman question in the Middle East most particularly in Egypt and Iran especially at the turn of the century when gender became a highly charged nationalist issue tied up in complex ways with the West. The last two decades have witnessed an extraordinary burst of energy and richness in Middle East women's studies and the contributors to this volume exemplify the vitality of this new thinking. They take up issues of concern to historians and social thinkers working on the postcolonial world. The essays challenge the assumptions of other major works on women and feminism in the Middle East by questioning among other things the familiar dichotomy in which women's domesticity is associated with tradition and modernity with their entry into the public sphere. Indeed, Remaking Women is a radical challenge to any easy equation of modernity with progress, emancipation and the empowerment of women. The contributors are Lila Abu Lughod, Marilyn Booth, Deniz Kandiyoti, Khaled Fahmy, Mervat Hatem, Afsaneh Najmabadi, Omnia Shakry and Zohreh T. Sullivan. The book is introduced by the editor with a piece called Feminist Longings and Postcolonial Conditions which masterfully interfaces the critical studies of feminism and modernism with scholarship on South Asia and the Middle East.
