Urbanization in the Middle East, with Some References to North Africa Lenwood G. Davis, 1978

Urban Development in the

Muslim World Hooshang Amirahmadi, 2017-09-08 War and revolution have focused the world's attention on the Middle East. Despite the headlines, the editors of this book state the economic, political, and cultural aspects of urban life in the Muslim world are hardly known to us. Contributors to this volume explore urban problems, urban development, and the practice of urban planning in the Muslim world. In both comprehensive analyses and detailed case studies, the contributors address the basic dilemma of development planning: how to integrate the force of tradition with the demands of modernity. Specifically, some of the topics covered include the examination of the idea of a uniquely Islamic city, the influence of Islam on the medinas of Tunisia and Morocco, and on the development of Mecca and Delhi, and reconciling tradition and modernism in Tehran. Also covered are the comparative development of Sana'a and Cairo, the influence of oil on urbanization in the Persian Gulf, urban growth in Syria, and an overview of urban planning in the Arab world. This compendium is essential for specialists and students of the region, for international planning and development practitioners, and for those seeking insight into the complexities of this important but arguably least understood region of the world. Urbanization in the Middle East A. G. Samaan, 1976 Routledge Handbook on Middle East Cities Haim Yacobi, Mansour Nasasra, 2019-07-01 Presenting the current debate about cities in the Middle East from Sana'a, Beirut, and Jerusalem to Cairo, Marrakesh, and Gaza, the book explores urban planning and policy, migration, gender, and identity, as well as politics and economics of urban settings in the region. This handbook moves beyond essentialist and reductive analyses of identity, urban politics, planning, and development in cities in the Middle East and instead offers critical engagement with both historical and contemporary urban processes in the region. Approaching cities as multi-dimensional sites, products of political processes, knowledge production, and exchange, and local and global visions, as well as spatial artefacts, importantly, in the different case studies and theoretical approaches, there is no attempt to idealise urban politics, planning, and everyday life in the Middle East, which, as with many other cities elsewhere, are also situations of contestation and violence, but rather to highlight how cities in the region, and especially those which are understudied, revolve around issues of housing, infrastructure, participation, and identity, amongst other concerns. Analysing a variety of cities in the Middle East, the book is a significant contribution to Middle East Studies. It is an essential resource for students and academics interested in Geography, Regional, and Urban Studies of the Middle East. Middle Eastern Cities in Comparative Perspective Kenneth Brown, Kenneth L. Brown, 1986 Popular Housing and Urban Land Tenure in the Middle East Myriam Ababsa, Baudouin Dupret, Eric Denis, 2012 This book describes two major transformations that have been observed in the Middle East during the last thirty years: first, the accelerated changes in public policies toward neighbourhoods characterized as irregular or illegal, and second, the claim that this form of housing in urban areas is the norm. Middle Eastern Cities Ira M. Lapidus, 2023-11-15 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program, which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice, reach, and impact. accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1969 Aspects of Urbanization and Development in the Middle East and North Africa Yasmen Mohammed Zalzal,1984 The Middle East City Abdulaziz Y. Saqqaf,1987 A History of Addis Ababa from Its Foundation in 1886 to 1910 Peter P. Garretson,1974 This thesis traces aspects of the political economic and religious history of Addis Ababa from 1886 to 1910 It is based largely on documentary material both Ethiopian and European but also depends on oral information As a city it was unique in Africa because of the absence of an imposed European direction of its development and as a result it grew ad hoc influenced by both Ethiopian and foreign concepts of an urban community From the beginnings Emperor Menilek completely dominated the political and administrative machinery of the capital but during his illnesses many of his responsibilities were perforce delegated to his closest associates who exercised their powers largely through the organisation of the Imperial Palace The bureaucracy became increasingly civilian in its personnel rather than military especially after the Battle of Adwa Furthermore since Addis Ababa was also the capital of the empire the city and its administrators played not only a local but also an imperial role The economic influence of the capital was even more pronounced where again the Emperor was more important than any other individual in the land and under his watchful eye foreigners dominated the import and export trade while Christians wrested the overall control of trade in the Empire from the Muslims Yet evangelically the church was rarely very energetic in the capital although its influence was pervasive While many historians have seen Menilek s reign as a period of significant innovation and modernisation this thesis regards that as an exaggerated claim For when closely examined the modernisation of even the capital was never very impressive although it was the acknowledged centre of foreign influence Nonetheless the capital did show itself to be the main point for the diffusion of the few modernisations that were introduced into the country from the 1880s to 1910 The Middle Eastern City Alan Duben,1992
