Workplace Learning Perspectives On Education Training And Work:

Workplace Learning Keith Forrester, John Payne, Kevin Ward, 1995 Emerging Perspectives of Workplace Learning, 2008-01-01 There is a growing interest in understanding learning in and through work and its relationship to what is required to be learnt for effective and productive working lives This book offers a range of emergent perspectives based on current research on learning through and for work The common focus among these perspectives is to understand how individuals engage in and learn through their work This includes how they learn about manage and respond to change in their work and develop approaches and responses to learning in through and for their working lives The key contribution of this book is to provide insights to support learning throughout working life in order to sustain individuals capacities for effective productive and enduring working lives Comprising 15 chapters the book offers perspectives from Finland Germany New Zealand and Australia and across a range of occupations and places of work Individually and collectively these chapters make important contributions to learning about the self and agency at work and about learning work tasks The origins of this text were a desire to bring together the work of a group of recently completed and current doctoral candidates at Jyv skyl Regensburg and Griffith universities This goal has been achieved here as supported by collegiate activities among the editors contributors and their colleagues

The SAGE Handbook of Workplace Learning Margaret Malloch, Len Cairns, Karen Evans, Bridget N O'Connor, 2010-09-21 This Handbook provides a state of the art overview of the field of workplace learning from a global perspective The authors are all well placed theoreticians researchers and practitioners in this burgeoning field which cuts across higher education vocational education and training post compulsory secondary schooling and lifelong education The volume provides a broad based yet incisive analysis of the range of theory research and practical developments in workplace learning The editors draw together the three essential areas of Theory Research and Practice and Issues and Futures in the field of Workplace Learning In addition final chapters include recommendations for further development Key researchers and writers in the field have approached workplaces as the base of learning about work that is work based learning There has also been emerging interest in variations of this idea such as learning about through and at work Many of the theoretical discussions have centred on adult learning and some on learners managing their own learning with emphasis on aspects such as communities of practice and self directed learning In Europe and Australia early work in the field was often linked to the Vocational Education and Training VET traditions with concerns around skills competencies and on the job learning The idea that learning and workplaces had more to do with real lifelong and lifewide aspects than traditional training regimens has emerged in the last decade Since the mid 1990s the field has grown world wide as an area of theory research and practical work that has not only expanded the interest but has also legitimized the area as a field of study reflection and progress The SAGE Handbook of Workplace Learning draws together a wide range of views theoretical dispositions and assertions and provides a leading edge presentation by key writers and researchers with insight into the field and its current state It is a resource for researchers and academics interested in the scope and breadth of Workplace Learning Integrating School and Workplace Learning in Canada Hans G. Schuetze,Robert Sweet,2004-04 In response to concerns that the educational system from public schools through colleges universities and apprenticeship programs cannot adequately prepare students for work in the new economy Integrating School and Workplace Learning in Canada proposes alternation a hybrid form of learning that by combining experiential and cognitive learning skills allows individuals to develop the relevant skills and intellectual capabilities to address and solve complex problems encountered in the workplace Alternation involves not only a curricular balance between the theoretical and the practical but also two distinct venues for learning the classroom and the workplace The authors discuss cognitive and social learning its implementation in a variety of settings its role in smoothing the school work transition process and its potential to contribute to the knowledge and skills needed by the workforce They bring a wide range of disciplinary perspectives to bear in their analyses of the principles and practices of alternation providing historical theoretical and practical insights Their analysis contributes to and extends the current debate and discussion surrounding necessary changes in our education and training practices Resources in Education ,1998 Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work ,2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology Research Approaches on Workplace Learning Christian Harteis,David Gijbels,Eva Kyndt,2022-03-01 The volume comprises a variety of research approaches that seek to explore and understand employees learning and development through and for work Working life reveals challenges through technological economic and societal development that can only rudimentarily be addressed by formal education and training Workplace learning becomes more and more important for employees and enterprises to successfully cope with these challenges Workplace learning is a steadily growing field of educational research but it lacks so far a scholastic canon there is rather a diversity of research approaches This volume reflects this diversity by bringing together researchers from different countries and different theoretical backgrounds presenting their current research on topics that all are relevant for understanding presages processes and outcomes of workplace learning Hence this volume is of relevance for researchers as well as practitioners in the field and policy makers

Towards Integration of Work and Learning Marja-Leena Stenström, Päivi Tynjälä, 2008-10-08 Marja Leena Stenstrom and Pai vi Tynjal a Changing Working Life as a Challenge to Education

Recent macro level trends such as economic globalisation the development of the formation society changes in methods of production and the organisation of work and the growing significance of knowledge as a factor of production have created a new context for the relationship between education and working life In this new context the use of work experience as an educational and learning strategy has become one of the most important developments both in vocational education and training VET and in higher education Although the tradition of making work an integral part of education has varied at different levels of the educational system the challenges that systems of education currently face are very similar in many respects These include the challenge of equivalence as regards the level of academic standards the challenge of developing pedagogical practices for different forms of work related learning and the impact that work related learning has on the identity of the educational organisation the teacher and the learner The diversity of the systems through which work experience is realised the varying levels of training of workplace trainers and the lack of industrial experience of vocational school teachers have aroused discussion about how to guarantee and assess the quality of the learning taking place in different workplaces and of the work based learning system as a whole See e g Boud Griffiths Guile Griffiths 2001 The key pedagogical question regarding collaboration between education and work is how to build a firm connection between theory and practice or abstract thinking and practical action and between the development of general skills and specific vocational skills

Workplace Perspectives on Education and Training

Peter Doeringer,1981-03-31 Peter B Doeringer Many of our approaches to education and training date back to the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Since that time the skills and abilities demanded by the economy have undergone far greater change than have our training arrangements Moreover our ambitions for what can be accomplished through education and training policy have also increased Not only do we expect that such policies should meet the skill needs of the nation but also we ask that they play a role in equalizing economic opportunity and in promoting greater well being among workers In accordance with its mandate to increase understanding of educational processes and educational policy the National Institute of Education NIE sponsored a two day workshop in June of 1979 to examine workplace perspectives on education and training policy The workshop brought together a group of employer and trade union representatives education and training specialists policy analysts and government officials to discuss research and policy questions raised by training activities at the workplace As one might expect the discussion ranged widely and reflected many viewpoints on the relationship between education and work Among the participants there was consensus neither as to what should be done nor even as to what were the most important gaps in our knowledge about the workings of the education and training system The discussion was helpful however in drawing attention to the workplace as a significant and too often neglected component of this system
