Department of Economic and Social Affairs, World Energy Council, 2004 The World Energy Assessment report released in 2000 ISBN 9211261260 considered energy policy options and challenges in the context of sustainable development objectives and analysed trends based on data analysis available in 1998 This publication updates this analysis taking into account developments and information available through to early 2003 Topics covered include the discussions at the World Summit for Sustainable Development held in Johannesburg in 2002 energy linkages to major global issues such as access to affordable energy services poverty alleviation economic development greenhouse gas emissions fuel supply and security energy resources and technological options using energy scenarios to gauge whether sustainable futures are possible and identification of key energy policies and strategies to achieve sustainable economic growth Biodiversity Hotspots Frank E. Zachos, Jan Christian Habel, 2011-09-15 Biodiversity and its conservation are among the main global topics in science and politics and perhaps the major challenge for the present and coming generations This book written by international experts from different disciplines comprises general chapters on diversity and its measurement human impacts on biodiversity hotspots on a global scale human diversity itself and various geographic regions exhibiting high levels of diversity The areas covered range from genetics and taxonomy to evolutionary biology biogeography and the social sciences In addition to the classic hotspots in the tropics the book also highlights various other ecosystems harbouring unique species communities including coral reefs and the Southern Ocean The approach taken considers but is not limited to the original hotspot definition sensu stricto and presents a chapter introducing the 35th hotspot the forests of East Australia While due to a bias in data availability the majority of contributions on particular taxa deal with vertebrates and plants some also deal with the less studied invertebrates This book will be essential reading for anyone involved with biodiversity particularly researchers and practitioners in the fields of conservation biology ecology and evolution

Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis ,1977 Biofuels: implications for the feed industry Jannes Doppenberg,Piet van der Aar,2023-08-28 Increasing bio fuel production in the future will have a major impact on the feed industry Not only will the competition for food fuel and feed decrease the availability of feedstuffs for animal production but also new feedstuffs will become available for which the nutritional quality needs to be reviewed The nutritional value and usability of the by products as feedstuffs will be the main focus of the book In particular rapeseed meal and glycerine from biodiesel production and DDGS from bioethanol production are discussed For each product comprehensive research data summarising the variation in quality and production systems the energy and protein value for each animal category and the effects on animal production are presented Additionally this book gives an overview of the current and future developments of the emerging bioenergy production Broad topics which are addressed are the global potential for bioenergy production the enormous increase in bioethanol production in the U S against the backdrop of a developing bioethanol production in the EU and the future effects on supply and demand of the grain and feedstuff market This book will update nutritionists researchers traders and those working in the allied industry on the current state of knowledge of the usability of the different by products from biofuel production in specific animal feeds Minerals Yearbook, 2004, V. 3, Area Reports, International, Africa and the Middle East ,2006 Annual Book Markaz al-Imārāt lil-Dirāsāt wa-al-Buḥūth al-Istirātijīyah,2007 Yearbook of European Environmental Law ,2006 Pharmacotherapy Joseph T.
