TV Guide, 1989 Television in Black-and-white America Alan Nadel, 2005 La couverture indique Alan Nadel's new book reminds us that most of the images on early TV were decidedly Caucasian and directed at predominantly white audiences Television did not invent whiteness for America but it did reinforce it as the norm particularly during the Cold War years Nadel now shows just how instrumental it was in constructing a narrow conservative and very white vision of America During this era prime time TV was dominated by adult Westerns with heroes like The Rebel s Johnny Yuma reincarnating Southern values and Bonanza s Cartwright family reinforcing the notion of white patriarchy programs that Nadel shows bristled with Cold War messages even as they spoke to the nation's mythology America had become visually reconfigured as a vast Ponderosa crisscrossed by concrete highways designed to carry suburban white drivers beyond the moral challenge of racism racial poverty and increasingly vocal civil rights demands

The Columbia History of American Television Gary Richard Edgerton, 2007 Richly researched and engaging The Columbia History of American Television tracks the growth of TV into a convergent technology a global industry a social catalyst a viable art form and a complex and dynamic reflection of the American mind and character Renowned media historian Gary R Edgerton follows the technological progress and increasing cultural relevance of television from its prehistory before 1947 to the Network Era 1948 1975 and the Cable Era 1976 1994 He considers the remodeling of television's look and purpose during World War II the gender racial and ethnic components of its early broadcasts and audiences its transformation of postwar America and its function in the political life of the country In conclusion Edgerton takes a discerning look at our current Digital Era and the new forms of instantaneous communication that continue to change America's social political and economic landscape
