World Development Report 1982

Thomas Griffiths

World Development Report 1982:

World Development Report 1998-99 World Bank, World Development Report, 1982, 1982 This report reviews development prospects in the international economy and supplements the extensive discussion of adjustment issues in the 1981 World Development Report It finds that although international prospects have worsened over the past year during the remainder of the decade the middle income countries should be able to continue narrowing the income gap between themselves and the industrial countries The prospects for many of the low income countries however remain a matter of grave concern The report concentrates on agriculture which remains the chief source of income for close to two thirds of the population in developing countries and for the vast majority of the world's poor Informing the discussion is the experience gained by the World Bank in helping to finance some 800 agricultural and rural development projects in more than 70 countries experience supported by its broad intensive programs of economic scientific and social research Numerous tables and multicolor maps and graphics supplement the main body of the report case studies are interspersed to provide analyses directly related to the substance of the text The final portion of the report comprises world development indicators 25 two page tables containing economic and social profiles of more than 120 countries

The Politics of Global

Competitiveness Paul Cammack, 2022 Marx predicted in Capital 1867 that as capitalism became global patterns of work would be transformed and workers would need to develop versatility flexibility and mobility This general law of social production as he called it is now in evidence all around us in global value chains zero hours contracts and contract work organised through digital platforms It results from competition between capitalists scientific and technological revolutions in production and incessant advances in the division of labour as production processes are broken down into ever smaller steps This book documents the leading roles of the Paris based Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development and the Washington based World Bank as advocates of these developments They do not as generally supposed simply represent the interests of the advanced economies or the West and their transnational corporations They promote a single global model of capitalist development without limits and on a genuinely global scale It calls upon all states to adjust continually to the structural and social demands of competitiveness which they see as essential to the global hegemony of capital over labour The OECD and the World Bank propose policies that give girls and women equal access to education and paid work reform welfare to make work pay introduce flexible labour contracts that make hiring and firing easier focus education on skills that boost employability and draw workers in the developing world from the informal sector into the formal sector where they can be more productive This is the politics of global competitiveness
