Minnesota Federal Writers' Project, 2016-12-21 Excerpt from Minnesota A State Guide An avalanche of facts actual and near began to pour into the State office Even after each had been tested we still had enough to make a series rather than one volume The weeding out was a long and often painful process Had not Dr Folwell required four large volumes for the history of Minnesota We must tell the story and tell it fairly in a single essay Communities that merited a chapter at least must be squeezed into a few lines Local pride however justified must be sternly repressed From sins of commission we hope to have guarded ourselves fairly well with the help of consulting authorities But for our sins of omission we have no defense other than the imposed space limitations If despite its shortcomings the book has merit and we may as well admit we think it has some credit is due largely to the generous co operation we have received on all sides To the many volunteers who sent us local stories and photographs we offer our profound thanks and beg their forgiveness and leniency for our enforced treatment of their material Outstanding was the help given us by the University of Minnesota whose department heads not only read our manuscripts and proffered invaluable suggestions but permitted us to turn to them again and again as our court of last appeal by the Minnesota Historical Society its head and staff who gave so generously of their knowledge and records by the State Department of Education whose commissioner rescued us in one of our darkest moments by all those librarians to whom we fear we were a persistent trial by the unfailing confidence and support we received from our State Administrator We hope that in the Minnesota Guide they will find something to justify the time and sympathy they gave so freely About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged
