Tourism And Spatial Transformation:

Tourism and Spatial Transformations Gregory John Ashworth, A. G. J. Dietvorst, 1995 While there is a considerable amount of recent literature on recreation and tourism as activities there is little that provides a comprehensive review and analysis of intervention or planning in this sector Tourism and recreation include a wide variety of activities occurring within a wide range of environments and spatial scales The purpose of this book is to examine this transformation of space and draw out the implications for tourism policy and planning The editors present a general model of transformation as a guide to intervention and this is followed by 18 chapters divided into four parts The first focuses on the producers and includes case studies from the Spanish coast French mountains and Northern Thailand The second considers the management of the tourism product with examples from the Amsterdam waterfront development and holiday villages in Northern Europe The third section is concerned with consumers as managers of the transformation process drawing on information from nature based tourism sports tourism and festival events The final part provides a more holistic model of the planning of recreation and tourism

Cultural Heritage and Tourism in Japan Takamitsu Jimura, 2021-08-16 This book offers a comprehensive understanding of cultural heritage in Japan and its relationship with both domestic and international tourism Japan has witnessed an increase in tourism with rising visitor numbers to both established destinations and lesser known sites This has generated greater attention towards various aspects of Japanese culture heritage and society This book explores these diverse aspects of everyday life in Japan and their interconnections with tourism It begins with a conceptual framework of key theories related to heritage and tourism serving as a useful apparatus for further discussions in the following chapters Each chapter studies a specific aspect of Japan's cultural heritage from the history of Japan the development of war sites such as Hiroshima and Nagasaki to tourist destinations indigenous communities and their places of residence festivals such as matsuri to popular culture and media Each chapter discusses a certain type of cultural heritage first in a global context and then examines it in a Japanese context aiming to demonstrate the relation between these two different contexts In each chapter furthermore how a particular kind of Japan's cultural heritage is utilised as tourism resources and how it is perceived and consumed by international and domestic tourists are discussed Finally the book revisits the conceptual framework to suggest future directions for cultural heritage and tourism in Japan Written in an informative and accessible style this book will be of interest to scholars students and practitioners in the fields of tourism cultural studies and heritage studies The Politics of Heritage Tourism in China Xiaobo Su, Peggy Teo, 2009-09-11 This volume unravels the politics surrounding behind China's hegemonic project of heritage tourism development in Lijiang. It provides a compelling study of the dialectical relationships between global and domestic capital, the state, tourists, and locals as they collude, collaborate, and contest one another to ready Lijiang for tourist consumption. Using rich material from insightful interviews and quantitative data, the authors show how complex tourism development can be even as it strives to do good for the community. Su and Teo investigate the practices of contestation and negotiation of identity within Lijiang, analyze the negotiations that transform material and vernacular landscapes, and suggests strategies that will enable sustained tourism interest in this location.

Linking Gramsci's theory on hegemony to the cultural politics of space, this book has two major strengths: it establishes a theoretical framework to conceptualize power relations in tourism space and provides critical insights into the rapidly shifting socio-political landscape of contemporary China. Comparisons with other Chinese heritage sites are also provided. By addressing the power struggles inevitable in the process of tourism development, The Politics of Heritage Tourism in China provides an innovative understanding of China's dynamic politics in a period of transition. As such, it will address the needs of students and academic scholars working in the fields of China studies, tourism, cultural studies, urban studies, sociology, geography, political science, and heritage studies.

Justice, Power, and Mobility in Tourism Dominic Lapointe, Michela Stinson, Meghan Muldoon, Bryan Grimwood, 2026-02-13. This book offers a critical and justice-oriented examination of tourism's complex impacts, revealing how it shapes and is shaped by economic, social, gender, environmental, animal, and racial injustices. It explores pathways toward more equitable and transformative practices for communities and environments. The book examines a mosaic of international research on issues of justice and power in tourism. Offering a critical and justice-oriented perspective, it seeks to develop a deep and critical understanding of not only how tourism interacts with injustices but also how it perpetuates various forms of injustice beyond the purely economic and marketing-driven view of tourism. Anchored in the critical tourism studies, the book is building on a diversity of perspectives and a rich array of theoretical and disciplinary frameworks to challenge conventional points of view on power dynamics and subsequent justice issues associated with tourism. With illustrative case studies from different parts of the world, it leads the readers to build reflexivity and critical engagement for thoughtful research theories and practices in tourism. This book is aimed at graduate students and professors interested in a critically oriented, justice-based understanding of tourism as a global phenomenon. It will also offer a varied perspective on the complexity of tourism and its multidisciplinary weaving with geographies, societies, and philosophies to all tourism scholars.
