

The background of the cover is a stylized illustration. In the upper left, a tall, multi-story stone tower with arched windows and a dark roof stands on a hillside. The middle ground shows a yellow vintage car with a spare tire on the back, parked on a narrow dirt path that runs along the edge of a steep, rocky cliff. A bright beam of light from the car's headlights illuminates the path ahead. The landscape is filled with various green trees and bushes. The sky is a deep, dark purple, suggesting dusk or dawn. The overall style is reminiscent of classic children's book illustrations.

Dixon, 1927 After a dying criminal confesses that his loot has been stashed in the tower the Hardy boys make an astonishing discovery      The Rhetoric of Topics and Forms Gianna Zocco, 2021-01-18 The fourth volume of the collected papers of the ICLA congress The Many Languages of Comparative Literature includes articles that study thematic and formal elements of literary texts Although the question of prioritizing either the level of content or that of form has often provoked controversies most contributions here treat them as internally connected While theoretical considerations inform many of the readings the main interest of most articles can be described as rhetorical in the widest sense given that the ancient discipline of rhetoric did not only include the study of rhetorical figures and tropes such as metaphor irony or satire but also that of topoi which were originally viewed as the places where certain arguments could be found but later came to represent the arguments or intellectual themes themselves Another feature shared by most of the articles is the tendency of undeclared thematology which not only reflects the persistence of the charge of positivism but also shows that most scholars prefer to locate themselves within more specific often interdisciplinary fields of literary study In this sense this volume does not only prove the ongoing relevance of traditional fields such as rhetoric and thematology but provides contributions to currently flourishing research areas among them literary multilingualism literature and emotions and ecocriticism      The Wisdom of the Lotus Sutra, vol. 3 Daisaku Ikeda, 2022-05-01 The Lotus Sutra Shakyamuni Buddha's highest teaching explains that all people regardless of gender social status or education can uncover the Buddha nature they inherently possess Based on this empowering and compassionate sutra Nichiren Daishonin revealed the supreme practice for the modern world Now in clear down to earth terms SGI President Ikeda and Soka Gakkai Study Department leaders Katsuji Saito Takanori Endo and Haruo Suda explore the profound meaning of the Lotus Sutra's twenty eight chapters Basing themselves on Nichiren Daishonin's lectures on the Lotus Sutra The Record of the Orally Transmitted Teachings they explain the concepts that form the foundation of SGI members' Buddhist practice Through their discussions the ancient text of the Lotus Sutra comes alive brimming with profound significance and practical advice for living in today's world Volume three covers chapter 11-15 of the twenty eight chapter Lotus Sutra

Ultimate Mandala Reverend Sylvain Chamberland-Nyudo, 2008-12-06 The historical Buddha was a man born in India in the fifth to sixth century BCE When he manifested his innate Buddha nature he became the teacher of the world to lead all people to this revelation From the very start of his teachings the Buddha taught for all people no matter what social caste education or ability could attain and maintain their inherent Buddha nature in this life and for eternity This Law was in fact the method that he had used to achieve his attainment Make no mistake This is NOT New Age Buddhism Now is the time the fifth five hundred year period after the Buddha's passing into Nirvana Now is the capacity of the people such that we can widely spread and widely achieve enlightenment with this most simple and magnificent teaching Now is the time for your ultimate joy and release from suffering      The Spatial Dynamics of Juvenile Series Literature Michael G.

Cornelius,2020-11-11 Where we come from where we are where we have been and where we are going all have a huge impact on who we are Theories of space and place also hold that the converse is equally true that we have an impact on those spaces and places we inhabit or dwell within We make space our agencies our cultures our beliefs and values and understandings shape the macro and micro environments around us Just as much however those places we inhabit shape us causing us to adapt ourselves to them Children exist in spaces that are crafted for them by adults by parents by school administrators and teachers and as such their impact on space can be somewhat limited Space is made for them but certainly not to their own specifications or liking In children s literature spaces are often seen as noteworthy markers of a child s progression toward adulthood whether the space is Laura Ingalls little house or Harry Potter s Hogwarts For these characters movement through space is about growth and change about accepting the inevitability of growing up and the responsibility of the adulthood whether that be marriage and motherhood or vanquishing the most evil wizard of all time However what about juvenile series books whose central protagonists generally never grow or change The central character of these series usually a flat unchanging trope more than a fully realized fleshed out dynamic figure is a static creation Though characters like Nancy Drew and the Hardy Boys frequently move through different geographies they never change as characters In fact one could argue that the only dynamic that ever experiences any alteration in a series like Nancy Drew is setting Surely there is something significant about the relationship of series books to those spaces their protagonists inhabit This collection explores that relationship the dynamics between the controlled spaces of childhood and the variable spaces of juvenile series literature It shows that the unchanging series book characters demonstrate that their impact on space is far greater than its impact ever is on them reflecting an exercise in spatial authority that most children and even children s book heroes never quite experience
