Transition Banking:

Transition Banking Ronald W. Anderson, Chantal Kegels, 1998 Transition Banking assesses the efforts since 1989 to develop financial sectors in the economies of Central and Eastern Europe In finance above all the principles of central planning were radically opposed to those of capitalism and moving from one system to the other has required entirely new institutions and skills This financial development is crucial to growth and to full partnership with the West The approach taken here is comprehensive empirical and comparative Anderson and Kegels seek to answer a series of key questions Has the State retreated from controlling the allocation of savings Is the banking sector competitive Do investors direct the use of capital Are securities markets developing Is outside finance supporting economic growth Is the financial system stable In explaining the logic of finance in a transition setting Transition Banking both documents the important progress made in institution building to date and pinpoints the areas where the region remains vulnerable
