The Floating Opera:

The Floating Opera and The End of the Road John Barth, 1997-03-11 From the author of National Book Award nominated Lost in the Funhouse John Barth's first two novels are both existential comedies featuring strange consuming love triangles and the destructive effects of an overactive intellect on the emotions Barth ran riot over literary rules and conventions even as he displayed with meticulous discipline mastery of and respect for them The New York Times The relationship between these two darkly comic novels is evident not only in their ribald and philosophical subject matter but in their eccentric characters and bitterly humorous tone The protagonist of The Floating Opera is Todd Andrews an orphaned war veteran who has been sleeping with his friend's wife Todd awakens in the morning determined to commit suicide having concluded that nothing in life has intrinsic value but then spends the day methodically reasoning his way into disregarding that fact and remaining a part of the floating opera of life In The End of the Road a man named Jacob Horner finds himself literally paralyzed by an inability to choose a course of action from all possibilities He begins an unconventional course of mythotherapy treatment at the Remobilization Farm but his eccentric doctor's directives lead him into a tragic love triangle and from there to the nihilistic end of the road Separately these two novels give two very different views of the universal human quest for meaning and together they form the beginnings of an illustrious literary career The Floating Opera John Barth, 1967 The Floating Opera. Barth* John Barth, 1970 The Floating Opera/ John Bath* John Barth, 1970

Once Upon a Time - a Floating Opera* John Barth, 2015-12-18 An fantasy filled sailing trip through Chesapeake Bay in the course of which a writer recounts his life The novel is written in the form of an opera whose arias serve as vehicles for digressions which would otherwise have slowed down the narrative By the author of The Last Voyage of Somebody the Sailor

Passionate Virtuosity Charles B. Harris, 1983 Supplanting the Postmodern David Rudrum, Nicholas Stavris, 2015-09-24 For more than a decade now a steadily growing chorus of voices has announced that the postmodern literature art thought and culture of the late 20th century have come to an end At the same time as this the early years of the 21st century have seen a stream of critical formulations proclaiming a successor to postmodernism Intriguing and exciting new terms such as remodernism performatism hypermodernism automodernism renewalism altermodernism digimodernism and metamodernism have been coined proposed and debated as terms for what comes after the postmodern Supplanting the Postmodern is the first anthology to collect the key writings in these debates in one place The book is divided into two parts the first The Sense of an Ending presents a range of positions in the debate around the demise of the postmodern the second Coming to Terms with the New presents representative writings from the new isms mentioned above Each of the entries is prefaced by a brief introduction by the editors in which they outline its central ideas point out the similarities and or differences from other positions found in the anthology and suggest possible strengths and limitations to the insights presented in each piece The Floating Opera Comes to the End of the Road Ingrid Otero Garabís, 1979 The Floating

Opera Philip Landeck, Mark Strand, 1970      The Floating Opera John Barth, 1981      The Passing of Postmodernism Josh Toth, 2010-03-24 The Passing of Postmodernism addresses the increasingly prevalent assumption that a period marked by poststructuralism and metafiction has passed and that literature and film are once again engaging sincerely with issues of ethics and politics. In discussions of various twentieth and twenty-first century writers, directors, and theorists from Michel Foucault and Slavoj Žižek to Thomas Pynchon and David Lynch, Josh Toth demonstrates that a certain utopian spirit persisted within and actually defined the postmodern project. Just as modernism was animated by an idealistic belief that it could finally realize the utopia beckoning on the horizon, postmodernism was compelled by an equally utopian belief that it could finally reject the possibility of all such illusory ideals. Toth argues that this specter of an impossible future is and must remain both possible and impossible, a ghostly promise of what is always still to come. Josh Toth teaches literature and critical theory at Grant MacEwan College and is coeditor with Neil Brooks of The Mourning After: Attending the Wake of Postmodernism.

Theme in John Barth's The Floating Opera and *The End of the Road James Oliver Harrison, 1977      Narrative, Authority, and Law Robin West, 1993 Challenges the moral basis for the authority of law      The Cambridge History of American Literature: Volume 7, Prose Writing, 1940-1990 Sacvan Bercovitch, Cyrus R. K. Patell, 1994 Volume VII of the Cambridge History of American Literature examines a broad range of American literature of the past half century, revealing complex relations to changes in society. Christopher Bigsby discusses American dramatists from Tennessee Williams to August Wilson, showing how innovations in theatre anticipated a world of emerging countercultures and provided America with an alternative view of contemporary life. Morris Dickstein describes the condition of rebellion in fiction from 1940 to 1970, linking writers as diverse as James Baldwin and John Updike. John Burt examines writers of the American South, describing the tensions between modernization and continued entanglements with the past. Wendy Steiner examines the postmodern fictions since 1970 and shows how the questioning of artistic assumptions has broadened the canon of American literature. Finally, Cyrus Patell highlights the voices of Native American, Asian American, Chicano, gay, and lesbian writers, often marginalized but here discussed within and against a broad set of national traditions      Ideology and Aesthetics in American Literature and Arts Jaroslav Kušník, 2012-01-31 This book includes contributions by African, East and West European, Asian, and North American scholars which deal with and compare ideological and non-ideological approaches to the analysis of literary, artistic, as well as popular works, popular music, mostly by American authors. Most of the essays deal with a way various aspects of American identity are depicted, represented, treated, ideologized, and aestheticized in different literary genres, forms of art, and media. The contributions offer multidisciplinary, cross-cultural, and comparative perspectives and represent a diversity of scholarly voices ranging from the general discussion on the relationship between ideology and art to Anton Pokrivk's ideology and multiculturalism, Cristina Garrig's analysis of poetry, Pokrivk's Obododima, Oha's postmodern fiction, Pi Hua Ni's drama, Zsófia Diamanti's Csaba Csap, as well as the comparative analysis of the depiction of the identity of North American Indians in such different media as literature and film Michal Peprn k In addition to this the book includes the analysis of Black rap music Wojciech Kallas
