After some time she went to the South United and Old Berkshire breeds, and she was interested in horse jumping competitions. She was a founder member of the Committee of the South United branch of the Hunt Club, and was its secretary for some years.

She then started her winter term training three-day-event horses and three months, and also continued in Italy and Switzerland she returned to England to spend another year in horse training, being invited to instruct professionally. She was for some time an instructor at Sandhurst and a year later became head of the Riding Department at Sandhurst College, near Oxford. When invited to Sand Lyons, Mrs. Rose was responsible for the B.H.S.A. in the morning programme, and took her M.B.E. in April 1966.

She then went to the United States to teach at the University of California, U.S.A., where she was again engaged with a training programme for several months in addition to her regular teaching duties.

For the past few years, she has been living in Colorado, and teaching in a riding school, and also continuing to instruct in the U.S.A. Many of the students, coming from all over the world, are competing successfully in open international events in Colorado, and a number from her own country have also achieved success in the same way at various international events in Europe, U.S.A.

She has also been invited to visit at Sand Lyons again, being a founder member of the British National Equestrian Federation, and a founder member of the British National Equestrian Federation.
