The Human Situation William Macneile Dixon, 1946      The Human Situation Harvey Jackins, 1973 On the basic theory and practice of re evaluation counseling      The Human Situation William Macneile Dixon, 1937      The Human Situation W. M. Dixon, 1946      The Human Situation W. MacNeile Dixon, 2014-12-03 Originally published in the late 1930 s The Human Situation was written by W Macneile Dixon a great philosopher in his time The book comprises the Gifford Lectures delivered at the University of Glasgow between 1935 and 1937 and will prove a fascinating read for anyone with an interest in philosophy Introduction The most singular and deepest themes in the History of the Universe and Mankind to which all the rest are subordinate are those in which there is a conflict between Belief and Unbelief and all epochs wherein Belief prevails under what form it will are splendid heart elevating and fruitful      The Human Situation: Lectures at Santa Barbara, 1959 Aldous Huxley, 2025-09-16T00:00:00Z The Human Situation Lectures at Santa Barbara 1959 is a book by Aldous Huxley that compiles his lectures given at the University of California Santa Barbara in 1959 exploring human nature society and the modern world s challenges and potentials synthesized with science philosophy and spirituality In particular it explores the intricate relationships between scientific progress individual freedom and global harmony      The Human Situation W. Macneile Dixon, 1981-09      The Human Situation William Macneile Dixon, 1964      The human situation, by w. macneile dixon W. macneile Dixon, 1938      The Human Situation, 1950. [William Ainslie Memorial Lecture J. Baillie,      The Human Situation Gerd Haeffner, 1989 Since the beginning of conscious thought the human animal has questioned the meaning of its existence Although qualified in numerous ways by time and circumstance the question has remained In modern times it has assumed an unusual urgency due to the disintegration of self understanding caused in part by the Industrial Revolution and the destruction and degradation of this century s wars We ask again What is the nature of human life What qualifies as a meaningful life and How shall we come to understand ourselves in the future Using the resources of anthropology biological research ad philosophy to plumb the essence of humanity The Human Situation renews this quest for understanding Gerh Haeffner leads the reader through an examination of the different levels of human consciousness beginning with the techniques of biology and the human sciences Through this approach the reader is progressively made aware of the central question of What is it to be human and is led to an understanding of the unity of human life the central realities of conscience and freedom and finally the question of the meaning of life Other considerations include the basic dimensions of human existence the mental element of the act and the unity of human life and its meaning This work is an excellent general introduction to philosophical anthropology for students in a variety of disciplines with emphasis on developing issues and problems with a phenomenological method rather than presenting its material within a formal historical framework Though dealing with concepts that are challenging and demanding the writing is never technical and is appropriate for undergraduates      The Human Situation, Etc William Macneile Dixon, 1958      The Human Situation

William Macneile Dixon,1950      The Human Situation John BAILLIE (Professor of Divinity in the University of Edinburgh.),1950      The Human Situation William Macneile Dixon,1937      The Vulnerability of the Human World Elodie Boublil,Susi Ferrarello,2023-10-21 This book contains the most recent papers problematizing the notions of health vulnerability and well being for individuals and their environment Organized in 5 sections the book takes into consideration the critical and phenomenological history of well being and health their technological manipulation how these notions connect with the body and the specific vulnerability of the human being and what responsible direction we can take to improve people s relation to themselves to other living beings and their environment In order to address the issue of the vulnerability of the human world and how to respond to its specific challenges the contributions in this book discuss the topic from a broad range of perspectives including anthropological psychological sociological philosophical and environmental
