The Development of Arithmetic Concepts and Skills Arthur J. Baroody, Ann Dowker, 2013-06-17 This volume focuses on two related questions that are central to both the psychology of mathematical thinking and learning and to the improvement of mathematics education What is the nature of arithmetic expertise How can instruction best promote it Contributors from a variety of specialities including cognitive developmental educational and neurological psychology mathematics education and special education offer theoretical perspectives and much needed empirical evidence about these issues As reported in this volume both theory and research indicate that the nature of arithmetic expertise and how to best promote it are far more complex than conventional wisdom and many scholars past and present have suggested The results of psychological educational and clinical studies using a wide range of arithmetic tasks and populations including normally and atypically developing children non injured and brain injured adults and savants all point to the same conclusion The heart of arithmetic fluency in general and the flexible and creative use of strategies in particular is what is termed adaptive expertise meaningful or conceptually based knowledge The construction of adaptive expertise in mathematics is for the first time examined across various arithmetic topics and age groups This book will be an invaluable resource for researchers and graduate students interested in mathematical cognition and learning including mathematics educators developmental and educational psychologists and neuropsychologists educators including teachers curriculum supervisors and school administrators and others interested in improving arithmetic instruction including officials in national and local education departments the media and parents

Developmental Psychology: From Infancy to Development Fiona White, David Livesey, Brett Hayes, 2012-08-20 Developmental Psychology From infancy to adulthood 3rd edition continues to bring together a balanced focus on Australian and international research contributions in developmental psychology Students and lecturers alike will find this text addresses the issues of lifespan development in a rigorous and challenging way using a thematic rather than chronological approach International and national research on graduate attributes consistently identifies critical thinking as one of the most important skills for psychology students The inclusion of Critical Thinking for Group Discussion at the end of each chapter is designed to encourage students in the development of this key skill These questions help students develop the ability to engage in discussions on truth and validity and evaluate the relative importance of ideas and data Students learn by doing and this is encouraged through interactive features such as Stop and Review Research Focus Boxes and Practical Exercises which engage them in group discussion and challenge them to delve into complex and cross domain analysis of lifespan development Concept maps at the start of each chapter provide students with a visual snapshot of the chapter content Cognitive Development in Museum Settings David M. Sobel, Jennifer L. Jipson, 2015-10-30 Researchers in cognitive development are gaining new insights into the ways in which children learn about the world At the same time there has been increased recognition of the important role that visits to informal learning institutions plays in supporting learning Research and practice pursuits typically unfold independently and often with different goals and methods making it difficult to make meaningful connections between laboratory research in cognitive development and practices in informal education Recently groundbreaking partnerships between researchers and practitioners have resulted in innovative strategies for linking findings in cognitive development together with goals critical to museum practitioners such as exhibit evaluation and design Cognitive Development in Museum Settings offers an account of ways in which researchers in cognitive development partner with museum practitioners Each chapter describes a partnership between academic researchers and museum practitioners and details their collaboration the important research that has resulted from their partnership and the benefits and challenges of maintaining their relationship This approach illustrates cutting edge developmental science but also considers how researcher practitioner interactions affect research outcomes and provide insight to questions common to practitioners In addition each set of researchers and practitioners discusses issues brought up by the partnership by posing questions concerning research practice partnerships and research evidence considering whether and how cognitive development research conducted in museum settings aligns with larger disciplinary interests in that field and examining to what extent museum practitioners benefit from applying research on the development of cognitive processes to their educational practices
