Edwin Robert Anderson Seligman

Ultimate Price:

Ultimate Price Howard Steven Friedman, 2021-05-05 How much is a human life worth Individuals families companies and governments routinely place a price on human life The calculations that underlie these price tags are often buried in technical language yet they influence our economy laws behaviors policies health and safety These price tags are often unfair infused as they are with gender racial national and cultural biases that often result in valuing the lives of the young more than the old the rich more than the poor whites more than blacks Americans more than foreigners and relatives more than strangers This is critical since undervalued lives are left less protected and more exposed to risk Howard Steven Friedman explains in simple terms how economists and data scientists at corporations regulatory agencies and insurance companies develop and use these price tags and points a spotlight at their logical flaws and limitations He then forcefully argues against the rampant unfairness in the system Readers will be enlightened shocked and ultimately empowered to confront the price tags we assign to human lives and understand why such calculations matter

They Paid the Ultimate Price Paul R L Williams, 2026-03-09 This is a book about ordinary people in uniform men and women who set out to do a job they believed in knowing it might cost them everything Spanning over three centuries this meticulously researched chronicle lists in date order over 200 murders of police officers in Britain since 1703 From parish constables to modern day officers each entry marks a life lost in the line of duty These were not celebrities or headline chasers but public servants who faced danger with quiet resolve Their stories often tragic sometimes forgotten are brought together by a former member of the Metropolitan Police and Churchill Fellow whose work honours their sacrifice and reminds us of the risks faced by those who keep the peace Often unseen often unthanked but never forgotten

The Shifting and Incidence of Taxation Edwin Robert Anderson Seligman, 1910 Looks at the history of the theories of taxation by studying taxes on agricultural land real estate taxes and mortgage taxes Also studies many theories on taxes from Capitalization theory Eclectic theory and Agnostic theories among others
