Languages other than English in Australian Higher Education Jennifer Joan Baldwin, 2019-01-29 This book researches the study of languages other than English and their place in the Australian tertiary sector Languages are discussed in the context of the histories of Australian universities and the series of reports and surveys about languages across the second half of the twentieth century It demonstrates how changes in the ethnic mix of society are reflected in language offerings and how policies on languages have changed as a result of societal influences Also discussed is the extent to which influencing factors changed over time depending on social cultural political and economic contexts and the extent to which governments prioritised the promotion and funding of languages because of their perceived contribution to the national interest The book will give readers an understanding as to whether languages have mattered to Australia in a national and international sense and how Australia's attention to languages has been reflected in its identity and its sense of place in the world

Science and the Pacific War Roy M. MacLeod, 1999-12-31 In 1995 the fiftieth anniversary of the end of the Second World War occasioned many reflections on the place of science and technology in the conflict That the war ended with Allied victory in the Pacific theatre inevitably focussed attention upon the Pacific region and particularly upon the Manhattan project and its outcome It was in the Pacific that Western physics and engineering gave birth to the Atomic Age However the Pacific war had also proved a testing time and a testing space for other disciplines and institutions Extreme environments and operational distances and the fundamental demands of logistics required the Allies and the Japanese to innovate many scientific and technological practices Just as medicine and botany were called upon to fight tropical diseases and insect pests so engineers anthropologists and geographers were called upon to understand local conditions and climates and to work with local peoples whose traditional lives were changed forever by the experience At the same time the war played midwife to a host of new developments not least in scientific intelligence and in chemical and biological weapons which were to acquire far greater importance after 1945

Radical Students Alan Barcan, 2002 From the 1920s to the 1960s the Australian Left struggled to make ideological sense of the Great Depression the growth of fascism and militarism overseas World War II the atomic bomb the Cold War and fear of communism All these issues found expression on the campus of Australia's oldest university where ardent youth pursued the ideal of social justice Sydney's controversial philosophy professor John Anderson and his Freethought Society added volatility to the mix with their rejection of orthodox politics Later impassioned hostility between supporters of the Communist Party the Labor Party and the Catholic Movement led by B A Santamaria ruffled undergraduate life Alan Barcan was himself a participant in the radical movement This account of the period leavened with anecdotes and lively undergraduate wit recreates the texture of student life and the shifting faultlines of political loyalties Beyond Combat Tristan Moss, Tom Richardson, 2018-07-01 War is only a small part of military life Uniformed men and women spend the vast majority of their time away from combat training receiving medical attention burying the dead and undertaking the myriad tasks of survival in an operational zone Beyond Combat explores how the military manages its other roles as well as the experiences of the servicemen and women themselves With contributions from Christina Twomey Noah Riseman Shirleene Robinson and Major Clare O Neill among others Beyond Combat is a ground breaking examination of life beyond the frontline Record of the Jubilee Celebrations of the University of Sydney University of Sydney, 1903 Some modern writers: two courses of Sydney University extension lectures... University of Sydney.
