The Merchant of Venice, Told by a Popular Novelist ,1913 Time a Monthly Miscellany of Interesting and Amusing Literature ,1883 Footsteps of One Departed, Or Specimens in Verse and Prose ,1839 Time Edmund Hodgson Yates,1883 Trust, Power and Public Sector Leadership Steen Vallentin,2022-10-14 Trust Power and Public Sector Leadership A Relational Approach provides a critical theoretical treatment of trust in the realm of public management and governance The public trust agenda is an antidote to rampant bureaucratic control and in particular the marketization and instrumentalization associated with New Public Management The book approaches trust from a relational perspective that draws on insights from trust research modern sociology and organization and management theory while lending support to developments in New Public Governance It provides a theoretical framework that distinguishes between institutional economic moral and relational trust and shows how a relational perspective is able to incorporate insights from the other paradigms in an inclusive approach to trust processes Apart from providing a theoretical reading of the workings of trust in public organizations the book addresses how trust relates to power and control along with notions of debureaucratization post bureaucratic organization and post heroic leadership It also shows how the trust agenda in theory and practice is related to social capital and thus efforts to strengthen social relations and collaboration in and around public organizations Speaking of practice the book takes its empirical point of departure in the Danish public sector However the aim of the book is not to promote the High trust Danish case as a benchmark or best practice The aim is to theorize and help make sense of this particular experience by applying general theory to it and extracting general insights with broader application from its particular manifestations and outcomes There is a need for more elaborate theorizing about trust and power in a public sector setting and the Danish experience is useful as a starting point for this ambition The Boy's Own Annual ,1929 Stories articles interviews puzzles games jokes and other miscellaneous writings for boys The Merchant of Venice ,1914

Her Majesty's Tower William Hepworth Dixon,1885 From Hopalong to Hud Charles Leland Sonnichsen,1978 Many books and innumerable articles have been published on the subject of Westerns since 1960 but the emphasis has been almost entirely on Western movies Not much attention has been paid to the fiction of and about the American West This book begins with the assumption that the novel of the West is a sort of autobiography of the West and that the writing must be studied if we are to see what our fiction reveals about ourselves In these eleven essays C L Sonnichsen looks at both popular and serious fiction starting with a consideration of what the West means to America and the world and going on to discuss a number of topics that act as mirrors to our prejudices and emotions What does our fiction show has happened to our feelings about the Mexican over the last century About violence About sex About the mythical West The author s final chapter suggests other doors that should be opened other topics of Western fiction that should be investigated and discussed In scope and variety of approaches this book is unique Some chapters will provoke heated disagreement but the subject is timely Nothing is more interesting to us than ourselves and these essays tell something about who and what we are
