Tense Reference And Worldmaking:

Tense, Reference, and Worldmaking James A. McGilvray, 1991-09-09 Using Reichenbach's 1947 theory of tenses and temporal structures as a point of departure McGilvray modifies it to produce a theory of his own Analysing the difficulties Reichenbach's theory has in explaining the relationship of a speaker to a world he introduces a new model for this relationship based on the three interval temporal topology that Reichenbachian theory assigns to the sentences of natural languages McGilvray explains and defends in detail Reichenbach's theory of tense and temporal structure criticising and rejecting the major rival theory found in tense logic He also applies Reichenbach's nonstandard topology to English showing that it is correct for the language A significant aspect of McGilvray's study is the supplementing of Reichenbach's topology by including speakers sentences situations and things spoken about with the temporal intervals McGilvray relocates and reinterprets a prime source of faulty intuitions concerning time and tense our feeling that the past present and future must be thought of in terms of the settled the immediate and the unsettled He uses his theory to explain the temporal and semantic structure of complex constructions in English including propositional attitudes modals and conditionals As well he adapts the structure that Reichenbach's theory assigns to sentences to the aspects perfective complete and imperfective incomplete The novel view of temporal and semantic structure developed by McGilvray touches on virtually all the puzzles concerning the philosophy of language meaning and meaningfulness the nature of reference truth propositions and worldmaking His emphasis is on how the speaker by articulating sentences and understanding them is both free and constrained free to describe something which can be located at any time and in any world but constrained by the beliefs evidence information and commitments held or made at the time of speech

Reading Architecture and Culture Adam Sharr, 2012 Architecture displays the values involved in its inhabitation construction procurement and design It traces the thinking of the individuals who have participated in it their relationships and their involvement in the cultures where they lived and worked In this way buildings their details and the documents used to make them can be read closely for cultural insights Introducing the idea of reading buildings as cultural artefacts this book presents perceptive readings by eminent writers which demonstrate the power of this approach The chapters show that close readings of architecture and its materials can test commonplace assumptions help architects to appreciate the contexts in which they work and indicate ways to think more astutely about design The readings collected in this innovative and accessible book address buildings specifications and photographs They range in time from the fifteenth century examining the only surviving drawing made by Leon Battista Alberti to the recent past projects completed by Norman Foster in 2006 and Herzog and De Meuron in 2008 They range geographically from France to Puerto Rico to Kazakhstan and they range in fame from buildings celebrated by critics to house extensions and motorway service areas Taken together these essays demonstrate important research methods which yield powerful insights for designers critics and historians and lessons for students

Text, Time, and

Context Richard P. Meier, Helen Aristar-Dry, Emilie Destruel, 2009-10-20 Carlota S Smith was a key figure in linguistic research and a pioneering woman in generative linguistics This selection of papers focuses on the research into tense aspect and discourse that Smith completed while Professor of Linguistics at the University of Texas at Austin Smith's early work in English syntax is still cited today and her early career also yielded key research on language acquisition by young children Starting in the mid 1970s after her move to UT she embarked on her most important line of research In numerous papers the first of which was published in 1975 and in a very important 1991 book The Parameter of Aspect Smith analyzed how languages encode time and how they encode the ways events and situations occur over time Smith's work on the expression of time in language is notable because of its careful analyses of a number of quite different languages including not only English and French but also Russian Mandarin and Navajo Inspired by a year in France in the early 1970s Smith began to analyze the differing ways in which languages encode time and how they encode the ways events and situations occur over time In doing so she developed her signature two component theory of aspect This model of temporal aspect provided an excellent framework for graduate students seeking to analyze the temporal systems of an array of languages including under described languages that are so much the focus of research in UT's Linguistics Department Selected by Carlota Smith herself and by her longtime friends and colleagues this book contains her 1980 piece on temporal structures in discourse her 1986 comparison of the English and French aspectual systems a 1996 paper on the aspect system in Navajo an increasingly endangered language which Smith worked to preserve and her 1980 and 1993 papers on the child's acquisition of tense and aspect Smith who died in 2007 was a trailblazer in her field whose broad interests fed into her scholarly research She was an avid reader who sought to bring the analytic tools of linguistics to the humanistic study of literature by examining the syntactic and pragmatic principles which underlie literary effects Her research on rhetorical and temporal effects in context was integrated into her last book Modes of Discourse 2003 The current volume of articles covers much of her most fruitful work on the way in which language is used to express time and will be essential reading for many working and studying in linguistics generally and in semantics particularly The Present Perfect in World Englishes Valentin Werner, 2014-08-06
