

1.1.1. The Universe and the Place of Human Beings

Key words	Definition	Topics	Key info
Stewardship	Stewardship is the practice of managing and caring for the resources God has given us.	Christian beliefs/teachings about creation.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The Bible reveals the story of creation. God created everything from nothing in six days and rested on the seventh. God is described as omnipotent and omniscient and is therefore the only possible creator of a complex universe. The world shows evidence of design, for example in the complexity of the human eye, which some Christians believe could not have arisen as the result of the Big Bang. The creator of the universe must have existed outside of time in order to bring the world into existence. Only God is eternal and is the only one who could have created the universe.
Imago Dei	A latin phrase that means "image of god". It refers to the idea that humans are created in God's image and likeness, and that this gives humans a special relationship with God.	Non-religious beliefs/teachings about the origin of the universe	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Non-religious people may argue that the discoveries of science provide a valid alternative to the idea of God as creator. The Big Bang occurred billions of years ago and over the course of time the force of gravity pulled the planets together. Even if a person accepts the argument from causality there is no evidence to prove the uncaused cause was God. Alternative views suggest an advanced alien life form.
Dominion	To rule over or have power over something (in this case, Creation).	The Christian concept of Imago Dei and what makes humans unique	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Imago Dei is a theological term that means "image of God". It is a fundamental belief in Judaism and Christianity that describes the relationship between God and humans. The term is noted in Genesis 1:27, which states, "God created man in his own image"
Ex nihilo	Creatio ex nihilo (latin for "creation out of nothing") is the doctrine that matter is not eternal but had to be created by some divine creative act.	Non-religious beliefs and teachings about the place of human beings in the world.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Non-religious people might believe that humans have evolved to be the superior to many other species through bipedalism (walking on 2 legs), a large brain which gives us capacity to communicate through language and opposable thumbs which enable us to manipulate tools.
Big Bang Theory	The big bang is a physical theory that describes how the universe expanded from an initial state of high density and temperature.	Religious beliefs/teachings about creation's purpose: differing views as to why people believe that human beings have a responsibility for the planet.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Christians believe God created the world. He gave humanity the duty to care for his creation. They believe God has loaned the planet to humanity and will expect it back in good condition. They therefore have a responsibility to care for the environment on God's behalf. Jesus taught that not a sparrow falls to the ground outside God's care, therefore all living things are of value to God, and should be cherished and protected. Most Christians believe God gave humans the responsibility of stewardship. They should cultivate the land but treat it with respect, using it wisely and not overusing it.
Evolution	Evolution is the process by which biological populations change over time in their heritable characteristics. It's the result of genetic changes that correspond to observable changes in the	Different ways in which they can exercise this responsibility to the planet.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Recycling to reduce waste. Sponsoring an endangered animal to preserve species. Using renewable energy sources to reduce carbon emissions. Using biodegradable products to reduce environmental damage. Using public transport to reduce their carbon footprint.
Application of scripture		Differing views about the commonality of all living beings, the dominance of human beings over all other creatures.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Some Christians believe humans are more important than animals. God created both humans and animals but gave humans dominion over the rest of the natural world. Non-religious people may believe humans are more important than animals. Many scientists consider animal testing to be of value if it benefits humanity. Some believe all life is inter-linked. As such every aspect of the environment is important and all should be respected. Some believe that since God created all living things, all of creation has equal value. Some non-religious people believe animals deserve the same rights as humans and therefore protest against animal testing even if it is for the benefit of humanity.
Genesis 1:1 "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. Genesis 1:26 Then God said, "Let us make mankind in our image, in our likeness, so that they may rule over the fish in the sea and the birds in the sky, over the livestock and all the wild animals and over all the creatures that move along the ground."		How human beings should treat animals, and animal rights.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Humanity was given responsibility to look after animals animals should not be harmed as they have a soul that is part of the universal spirit religious people might accept that animals can be used to save the life of a human, for example in medical testing The righteous should care for the needs of their animals, because all living things are part of God's creation. Some Christians believe they can use animals in whichever way they choose, since God gave man dominion over the fish of the sea and the birds of the air Rights that animals should have might include <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Food Water
