Richard Johnson-Sheehan, 2018-08-03

For courses in Technical Communication, Fully centralizes the computer in the technical workplace, presenting how writers use computers throughout their communication process. The networked computer, from smartphone to mainframe, has become the central hub of written, spoken, and visual communication in today's scientific and technical workplace. Firmly rooted in core rhetorical principles, Revel™ Technical Communication Today presents computers as thinking tools that powerfully influence how we develop, produce, design, and deliver technical documents and presentations. This popular learning resource helps communicators draft and design documents, prepare material for print and web publication, and make oral presentations. Speaking to today's readers, the narrative is chunked so that readable portions of text are combined with graphics and can be raided by readers seeking the information they need. Retaining these features, the 6th Edition of Technical Communication Today also marks an important shift to drawing readers' attention to the centralization of innovation and entrepreneurship in the technical workplace. Revised chapters, new case studies, and new exercises and projects demonstrate that those who know how to write clearly, speak persuasively, and design functional and attractive texts will be the most likely to succeed in today's innovation-based and entrepreneurial workplace. Revel is Pearson's newest way of delivering our respected content. Fully digital and highly engaging, Revel replaces the textbook and gives students everything they need for the course. Informed by extensive research on how people read, think, and learn, Revel is an interactive learning environment that enables students to read, practice, and study in one continuous experience for less than the cost of a traditional textbook. RICHARD. JOHNSON-SHEEHAN, 2022 Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication Godwin Y. Agboka, Natalia Matveeva, 2018-06-22. In Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication, teachers, researchers, and practitioners will find a variety of theoretical frameworks, empirical studies, and teaching approaches to advocacy and citizenship. Specifically, the collection is organized around three main themes or sections: considerations for understanding and defining advocacy and citizenship locally and globally; engaging with the local and global community and introducing advocacy in a classroom. The collection covers an expansive breadth of issues and topics that speak to the complexities of undertaking advocacy work in TPC, including local grant writing, activities, cosmopolitanism, and global/transnational rhetoric, digital citizenship, and social media use, strategic and tactical communication, and diversity and social justice. The contributors themselves, representing fifteen academic institutions and occupying various academic ranks, offer nuanced definitions, frameworks, examples, and strategies for students, scholars, practitioners, and educators who want to or are already engaged in a variegated range of advocacy work. More so, they reinforce the inherent humanistic values of our field and discuss effective rhetorical and current technological tools at our disposal. Finally, they show us how through pedagogical approaches and everyday mundane activities and practices we can advocate either actively or passively

Qualitative Research in Technical Communication James Conklin, George F. Hayhoe, 2010-10-27 This volume brings together a representative sample from the growing body of work in qualitative research in technical communication including examples of qualitative methodologies including ethnography case study focus groups action research grounded theory and interview research used by technical communicators to strengthen their practice the result is a rich harmony of perspectives as diverse as the field of technical communication itself
