Recasting History Monica MacDonald, 2019-06-15 Since 1952 CBC television has played a unique role as the primary mass media purveyor of Canadian history Yet until now there have been no comprehensive accounts of Canadian history on television Monica MacDonald takes us behind the scenes of the major documentaries and docudramas broadcast on the CBC including in Explorations 1956 64 and the series Images of Canada 1972 76 The National Dream 1974 The Valour and the Horror 1992 and Canada A People s History 2000 02 Drawing on a wide range of sources MacDonald explores how producers struggled to represent the Canadian past under a range of external and internal pressures Despite dramatic shifts in the writing of history over this period she determines that television themes and interpretations largely remained the same The greater change was in the production and presentation particularly in the role of professional historians as journalists emerged not only as the new producers of Canadian history on CBC television but also as the new content authorities A critique of public history through the lens of political economy Recasting History reveals the conflicts compromises and controversies that have shaped the CBC version of the Canadian past

Whitney Lackenbauer,Chris Madsen,2007 In late 1945 a Canadian military court sitting in occupied Germany convicted Waffen SS General Kurt Meyer on charges related to the murder of Canadian prisoners of war in Normandy It was Canada's first entry into the war crimes field and the trial raised several important operational and legal issues particularly with regard to command responsibility Although sentenced to death by firing squad Meyer was saved by the controversial decision of Canadian military authorities to commute the sentence and was released after less than a decade of imprisonment in New Brunswick and West Germany Meyer's war crimes trial and the final result caused consternation and outrage among the Canadian public at the time It remains among the most contentious episodes in Canadian military history This collection brings together previously unpublished documents related to Canada's prosecution of Kurt Meyer including the original trial transcript and selected materials to situate the trial in its political military diplomatic and legal context p 4 of Cover Acadiensis ,1998 Canadian Saturday Night ,1995 Military History ,1992-04 The Barnes Review ,2006 Gotcha! George Bain,1994 THERE IS ONE VIEW OF journalism generally accepted by reporters that portrays its practitioners as the objective guardians of the public trust as writers who are almost always on the side of right and as professionals who do not make the news only report it Then there's the other view which paints a slightly different picture According to this way of thinking members of the media do indeed play a significant role in shaping the public's opinions particularly about politicians and are often biased and judgemental in their daily assessments of these leaders and they also refuse to take full responsibility for their errors inconsistencies and distortions of the truth It is this latter perspective that is represented in Gotcha a hard hitting expose of the Canadian media by the journalist George Bain A veteran of the Ottawa press gallery where he covered politics for the Globe and Mail for many years and now a columnist on the media for Maclean's magazine Bain has a commonsense approach to the world and a writing style that has always been logical and easy to follow Bain's main thesis is simply this if we currently live in a country where politicians are disliked distrusted and in some cases reviled then it probably has a great deal to do with how journalists have presented politicians to the public for the past 15 years According to Bain among members of the media there is a discernible inbred anti governmentalism that has permeated newspapers and television broadcasts for far too long Such an attitude has transformed political coverage into what Brian Mulroney referred to as gotcha journalism or what Bain labels issue making by entrapment Mulroney s various troubles with the media from Tunagate to Sinclair Stevens serve as Bain s main examples of media unfairness and distortion but he also analyses the Globe and Mail s manufactured assault on the former Alberta premier Don Getty in a series of investigative articles published in 1990 and journalists critical treatment of the former prime minister Kim Campbell In marshalling his case on the media s dealings with Mulroney Bain underplays the former prime minister s blustery style and his unfulfilled promises of a new cleaner government both of which may have contributed to the contempt many journalists had for him Nevertheless in every so called scandal that Bain examines his evidence that the media got all or part of the various stories wrong is difficult to dispute Canadian editors and journalists clearly have a lot to answer for But will this book or any other significant commentary make a difference Bain is not overly optimistic and rightly so He suggests that more quality control be introduced into newsrooms and calls for a return to more coverage of Parliament Unlike the politicians they write about and often condemn however journalists do not take criticism like this easily As Bain concedes his advice will be regarded not only as an intrusion into the media s private affairs but more important as an assault on the freedom of the press And nothing not even the truth at times is more sacred than that The Journal of Military History ,1995 Includes scholarly articles and book reviews on topics in military history
