Technology And Us Competitiveness:

Perspectives on U.S. Competitiveness in Science and Technology Titus Galama, James R. Hosek, 2007 Is the United States in danger of losing its competitive edge in science and technology S T In response to this concern the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness asked RAND to convene a meeting held on November 8 2006 to review evidence presented by experts from academia government and the private sector The papers presented at the meeting addressed a wide range of issues surrounding the United States current and future S T competitiveness including science policy the quantitative assessment of S T capability globalization the rise of Asia particularly China and India innovation trade technology diffusion the increase in foreign born S T students and workers in the United States new directions in the management and compensation of federal S T workers and national security and the defense industry These papers provide a partial survey of the facts challenges and questions posed by the potential erosion of U S S T capability The importance of S T to U S prosperity and security warrants that policymakers pay careful attention to the various high level reports issued over the past ve years that warn of pressures on the U S lead in S T The intellectual point of embarkation for the RAND meeting was the foremost recent such report Rising Above the Gathering Storm Energizing and Employing America for a Brighter Economic Future by the National Academy of Sciences

Technology and U.S. Competitiveness W. Henry Lambright, Dianne Rahm, Policy Studies Organization, 1992-06-17 Technology and U S global competitiveness is a major concern today and yet there is no study that surveys the key issues describing federal and state policies in the United States What new technologies are likely to increase our national productivity and international competitiveness in the future Editors Lambright and Rahm have gathered together a group of experts to provide varying perspectives and recommendations for students scholars experts and policymakers to consider The edited collection describes federal and state programs institutions and changing policy issues given the new world order of technology and competitiveness Part I analyzes federal competitiveness policy the decontrolling of technology transfer the role of the National Institute of Standards and Technology and the emerging role of the Department of Defense in Technology Transfer Part II covers turbulent state programs in the 1990s state space technology programs and basic research and development Part III deals with recent theoretical and organizational approaches to U S technology policy changing international relations and U S Japanese competitiveness and corporate culture in small high tech firms

U.S. Competitiveness in Science and Technology Titus Galama, James Hosek, 2008-06-17 Is the United States in danger of losing its competitive edge in science and technology This volume reviews the arguments surrounding this issue and contrasts them with relevant data including trends in research and development investment information on the size composition and pay of the U S science and engineering workforce and domestic and international education statistics The authors conclude with recommendations for policymakers
