"Return" in Post-colonial Writing Vera Mihailovich-Dickman,1994 For writers and academics prominent in the field of the New Literatures in English today the notion of return explodes into rich semantic difference to reveal the diversity of preoccupations underlying the use of the common tongue From the Caribbean to Australia Guyana to South Africa India to Great Britain literary political and personal history collaborate in the poetic metamorphosis of an otherwise everyday experience Now a state of being now a reading rich with cross cultural age return draws from the collective memory invokes revenants digs up forgotten history quests for roots Just as it creates a dialogue with the past textual or real it negotiates turning points and perpetuates reversals It reclaims territory tradition and language in its yearning for home Fraught with the tensions arising from awareness of the impossibility of return from the exhilarations of imaginary fictional return even from the glimmering hope of a possible return its contemplation can also lead to appreciation of the infinite re turn re newal and re creation that is the beauty of human experience Discussion ranges from revenant supernaturalism in West Indian literature and the exploration of return in Australian African and Indo Anglian fiction to Caribbean poetry South African praise poets and West African drama Writers treated include Ama Ata Aidoo Edward Kamau Brathwaite Jean D Costa Bessie Head Matsemela Manaka Salman Rushdie Derek Walcott and Patrick White The personal biographical dimension of physical return is encompassed via the examination of the life and works of such writers as Es kia Mphahlele and Wole Soyinka and through autobiographical reflections The essays stories and poetry in this collection challenge patterns of conditioned reading and call for a multilayered polylogue with reality

Caribbean Literary Discourse Barbara Lalla, Jean D'Costa, Velma Pollard, 2014-02-15 A study of the multicultural multilingual and Creolized languages that characterize Caribbean discourse especially as reflected in the language choices that preoccupy creative writers Caribbean Literary Discourse opens the challenging world of language choices and literary experiments characteristic of the multicultural and multilingual Caribbean In these societies the language of the master English in Jamaica and Barbados overlies the Creole languages of the majority As literary critics and as creative writers Barbara Lalla Jean D Costa and Velma Pollard engage historical linguistic and literary perspectives to investigate the literature bred by this complex history They trace the rise of local languages and literatures within the English speaking Caribbean especially as reflected in the language choices of creative writers The study engages two problems first the historical reality that standard metropolitan English established by British colonialists dominates official economic cultural and political affairs in these former colonies contesting the development of vernacular Creole and pidgin dialects even among the region s indigenous population and second the fact that literary discourse developed under such conditions has received scant attention Caribbean Literary Discourse explores the language choices that preoccupy creative writers in whose work vernacular discourse displays its multiplicity of origins its elusive boundaries and its most vexing issues The authors address the degree to which language choice highlights political loyalties and tensions the politics of identity self representation and nationalism the implications of code switching the ability to alternate deliberately between different languages accents or dialects for identity in postcolonial society the rich rhetorical and literary effects enabled by code switching and the difficulties of acknowledging or teaching those ranges in traditional education systems the longstanding interplay between oral and scribal culture and the predominance of intertextuality in postcolonial and diasporic literature
