The Design Necessity:

Design Necessity Ivan Chermeyeff, Richard Saul Wurman, Ralph Caplan, Peter Bradford, Jane Clark, 1973 Design is a necessity not something merely desirable if it can be afforded after material costs are covered Design is a process that permeates every aspect and phase of man's works not a last step polishing of the surface This has at last been recognized at nearly every level of modern society including now the federal level Design Necessity was prepared for presentation to the First Federal Design Assembly sponsored by the National Endowment on the Arts and the Federal Council on the Arts design is an urgent requirement not a cosmetic addition design can save money it can save time it enhances communication it simplifies use simplifies manufacture simplifies maintenance the design necessity is recognizably present in projects ranging in scale and complexity from a postage stamp to a highway system the absence of design is a hazardous kind of design not to design is to suffer the costly consequences of design by default on any given project designers and government officials have the same basic goal performance and effective design of public services is itself an essential public service Criteria for the design necessity are illustrated in the book by case studies of federal projects that work because they were designed to work These case studies deal with significant aspects of design not visible on the surface and explain how problems were solved

The Arts at a New Frontier Fannie Taylor, Anthony L. Barresi, 2013-03-09 Profound changes were taking place in American society during the period of the 1960s and 1970s when legislation for the National Foundation for the Arts and the Humanities was enacted and the agencies went into operation It was a period of soul searching by the American public when the cherished prejudices and civil inequities of the past decades were wiped out and old wounds began to heal at the same time however the Vietnam War was creating new fissures and antagonisms Into this newly healing newly questioning society congressional action thrust the National Council on the Arts in 1964 and the National Endowment for the Arts in 1965 Their mission was to encourage and support the arts and the men and women charged with this responsibility went about their work with the zeal and enthusiasm of religious converts The idea of even a minute amount of federal financial assistance to the country's chronically beleaguered and often impoverished artists and arts organizations seemed strange to a segment of the population that had existed in forgot ten independence from government intervention Many of the nation's artists and arts leaders were wary partly because of the uncertainties and constraints of previous patterns of governmental support
