Introduction to the Practice of African American Preaching Frank A. Thomas, 2016-11-15 The Introduction to African American Preaching is an important groundbreaking book This book acknowledges African American preaching as an academic discipline and invites all students and preachers into a scholarly dynamic and useful exploration of the topic Author Frank Thomas opens with a bus tour study of African American preaching He shows how African American preaching has gradually moved from an almost exclusively oral to an oral written tradition Readers will gain insight into the history of the study of the African American preaching tradition and catch the author's enthusiasm for it Next Thomas traces the relationship between homiletics and rhetoric in Western preaching demonstrating how African American preaching is inherently theological and rhetorical He then explores the question what is black preaching Thomas introduces the reader to methods of close reading and ideological criticism And then demonstrates how to use these methods using a sermon by Gardner Calvin Taylor as his example The next chapter considers the question what is excellence in black preaching The next chapter seeks to create bridges and dialogue within the field of homiletics and in particular the Euro American homiletic tradition The goal of this chapter is to clearly demonstrate connections between the African American preaching tradition and the field of homiletics Thomas next turns to questions about the relevancy of the church to the Millennial generation Specifically how will the African American church remain relevant to this generation which is so deeply concerned with social justice

What's Right with Preaching Today? Mike Graves, Andre Resner, 2021-03-09 In 1928 when Riverside Church NYC pastor Harry Emerson Fosdick asked the question in Harpers Magazine What's the Matter with Preaching Today he did not know that one response to that question had just entered the world in Humboldt Tennessee Fred B Craddock revolutionized preaching theory and practice by flipping pulpit logic from deductive to inductive often called the preaching as storytelling revolution and in so doing brought renewed interest and impact to the practice of preaching effectively rescuing it from an often tedious and moralizing fate With Fred preaching was anything but boring Rather it was an exciting and enlightening ride that led to the renewal of faith To honor Craddock's legacy Mike Graves and Andr Resner invited ten leading voices in homiletics to identify something that is right about preaching today In addition they issued a call to a wide variety of people to contribute stories about Fred's impact on their lives and ministries Twenty seven remembrances of Fred are included here throughout the book If you appreciate effective and engaging preaching as either a preacher or listener the essays and remembrances here will speak to you and provide encouragement about preaching's present and future With contributions from Ronald J Allen Barbara K Lundblad Alyce McKenzie Debra J Mumford Luke Powery Andre Resner Richard Ward Dawn Ottoni Wilhelm Paul Scott Wilson

Women Preaching Eunjoo Mary Kim, 2009-08-01 Considering the lack of resources that exists in the study of women s preaching Kim makes a very significant contribution to the development of homiletics as it joins together the history of women preachers with theological reflection from other women preachers as well as herself It is the author's hope that this book will provide a broader and deeper basis for the theology of preaching as well as practical ways in which preachers can improve their own preaching by looking at a woman's perspective Kim's ground-breaking book is the first comprehensive narrative of women preachers from the Second Testament to the Second Millennium Through Kim's eyes we see women as a constant and forceful if often subversive presence in Christian preaching After focusing on the medieval period the Reformation and the early twentieth century the author brings her autobiography close to the surface as she leads us to consider women and the politics of God in the colonial and post-colonial eras with a special focus on Asia The book climaxes with a call to envision preaching as partnership with God that facilitates partnership in the church and world in the service of liberation Ronald J Allen Nettie Sweeney and Hugh Th Miller Professor of Professor of Preaching and New Testament Christian Theological Seminary Indianapolis Indiana Kim's exciting exploration of the history of women preachers illuminates the remarkable perseverance of God and the women who partner with God to bring words of peace and transformation to the world Those churches that continue to deny women's preaching do more than simply perpetuate an inequality They also quench the Spirit who yearns to transform us co-workers in the liberative work of God Cliff Guthrie Associate Professor of Homiletics and Pastoral Studies Bangor Theological Seminary Bangor Maine

Claiming the Call to Preach Donna Giver-Johnston, 2021 Claiming the Call to Preach critically examines the dominant historical narrative that overtly or covertly has exercised its power to keep women from preaching Donna Giver Johnston here recovers the histories of four notable female preaching pioneers who affected change in the religious landscape of nineteenth century America Jarena Lee Frances Willard Louisa Woosley and Florence Spearing Randolph These women diverse in religion race class and culture each told their story of call in distinctive ways that articulated strong and effective rhetorical arguments for ecclesiastical sanction to give them a place in the pulpit

An End to this Strife Demetrius K. Williams, Williams's important work argues that taking the New Testament and particularly Galatians 3:28 seriously should lead black churches to challenge sexism and racism not only in society at large but also in African American churches and denominational bodies By addressing oppressive practices in African American and other churches they remain true to the liberation principle of the Bible the equality of all people before God which has been used effectively by black churches His argument unfolds first through looking at the biblical text especially the figure of Jesus and his ministry and how he broke the social barriers of his day It then shows how African American Christians have historically appropriated this lens and legacy in their own religious and social experience and explains how this vision pertains to the state of black women in the churches today Williams's book will help all Christian churches reappropriate the biblical text and serve as a model for how the Bible can be responsibly employed in the churches and the public arena to promote equality for all people examines how early black feminism goes public by shedding new light on some of the major figures of early black feminism as well as bringing forward some lesser known individuals who helped shape various reform movements. With a perspective unlike many other studies of black feminism, Teresa Zackodnik considers these activists as central rather than marginal to the politics of their day and argues that black feminism reached critical mass well before the club movement's national federation at the turn into the twentieth century. Throughout she shifts the way in which major figures of early black feminism have been understood. The first three chapters trace the varied speaking styles and appeals of black women in the church, abolition, and women's rights, highlighting audience and location as mediating factors in the public address and politics of figures such as Jarena Lee, Zilpha Elaw, Amanda Berry Smith, Ellen Craft, Sarah Parker Remond, and Sojourner Truth. The next chapter focuses on Ida B. Wells's anti-lynching tours as working within New Abolition and influenced by black feminists before her. The final chapter examines feminist black nationalism as it developed in the periodical press by considering Maria Stewart's social and feminist gospel, Mary Shadd Cary's linking of abolition, emigration, and woman suffrage, and late nineteenth century black feminist journalism addressing black women's migration and labor. Early black feminists working in reforms such as abolition and women's rights opened new public arenas such as the press to the voices of black women. The book concludes by focusing on the 1891 National Council of Women, Frances Harper, and Anna Julia Cooper, which together mark a generational shift in black feminism and by exploring the possibilities of taking black feminism public through forging coalitions among women of color. Press Platform Pulpit goes far in deepening our understanding of early black feminism, its position in reform, and the varied publics it created for its politics. It not only moves historically from black feminist work in the church early in the nineteenth century to black feminism in the press at its close, but also explores the connections between black feminist politics across the century and specific reforms.
