era Drawing on new archival sources and approaches in cultural studies author Nalini Ghuman shows that on the contrary England was both deeply aware of and heavily influenced by India musically during the Indian British colonial encounter Case studies of representative figures including composers Edward Elgar and Gustav Holst and Maud MacCarthy an ethnomusicologist and performer of the era integrate music directly into the cultural history of the British Raj Ghuman thus reveals unexpected minglings of peoples musics and ideas that raise questions about Englishness the nature of Empire and the fixedness of identity Richly illustrated with analytical music examples and archival photographs and documents many of which appear here in print for the first time Resonances of the Raj brings fresh hearings to both familiar and little known musics of the time and reveals a rich and complex history of cross cultural musical imaginings which leads to a reappraisal of the accepted historiographies of both British musical culture and of Indo Western fusion
