Strange Voices in Narrative Fiction Per Krogh Hansen, Stefan Iversen, Henrik Skov Nielsen, Rolf Reitan, 2011-10-27 From its beginnings narratology has incorporated a communicative model of literary narratives considering these as simulations of natural oral acts of communication This approach however has had some problems with accounting for the strangeness and anomalies of modern and postmodern narratives As many skeptics have shown not even classical realism conforms to the standard set by oral or natural storytelling Thus an urge to confront narratology with the difficult task of reconsidering a most basic premise in its theoretical and analytical endeavors has for some time been undeniable During the 2000s Nordic narratologists have been among the most active and insistent critics of the communicative model They share a marked skepticism towards the idea of using natural narratives as a model for understanding and interpreting all kinds of narratives and for all of them the distinction of fiction is of vital importance This anthology presents a collection of new articles that deal with strange narratives narratives of the strange or more generally with the strangeness of fiction and even with some strange aspects of narratology
