Val Rosing Ruth Glean Rosing, 1993      Val Rosing Ruth Glean Rosing, 1993      "On My Way" Joseph Horowitz, 2013-07-22 A revelatory history of the operatic masterpiece that both made and destroyed Rouben Mamoulian its director and unsung hero Bring my goat Porgy exclaims in the final scene of Gershwin's opera Porgy and Bess Bess whom he loves has left for New York City and he's determined to find her When his request is met with astonishment New York is a great distance from South Carolina's Catfish Row Porgy remains undaunted He mounts his goat cart and leads the community in an ecstatic finale Oh Lawd I m on my way Stephen Sondheim has called Bring my goat one of the most moving moments in musical theater history For years it was assumed that DuBose Heyward the author of the seminal novella and subsequent play Porgy and later the librettist for the opera Porgy and Bess penned this historic line In fact both it and Oh Lawd I m on my way were added to the play eight years earlier by that production's unheralded architect Rouben Mamoulian Porgy and Bess as we know it would not exist without the contributions of this master director Culling new information from the recently opened Mamoulian Archives at the Library of Congress award winning author Joseph Horowitz shows that more than anyone else Mamoulian took Heyward's vignette of a regional African American subculture and transformed it into an epic theater work a universal parable of suffering and redemption Part biography part revelatory history On My Way re-creates Mamoulian's visionary style on stage and screen his collaboration with George Gershwin and the genesis of the opera that changed the face of American musical life

From Johnson's Kids to Lemonade Opera Victoria Etnier Villamil, 2004 American baritone Lawrence Tibbett created an overnight sensation at the Metropolitan Opera in 1925 when the audience stopped the performance of Falstaff to honor their compatriot for his exceptional talent Tibbett's now legendary curtain call foreshadowed a startling new era for classically trained native singers who rarely received the public recognition or respect given to their European colleagues In this absorbing work Victoria Etnier Villamil chronicles the extraordinary time from 1935 to 1950 when American artists who felt intensely inferior to foreign performers journeyed from being unappreciated in their own country to standing without apology on stages at home and abroad Drawing on exhaustive primary research and extensive interviews Villamil tells the remarkable story of a generation of American opera singers whose profession image and art were forever altered by the upheavals of World War II as well as sweeping cultural and technological changes The author's in depth look at these breakthrough years explores such defining factors as Edward Johnson's drive to Americanize the Met in his first seasons as general manager the impact of the microphone on singers and singing styles and the importance of radio and motion pictures in introducing classical music voices to wider audiences Villamil also considers how travel restrictions imposed on European artists during the war unlocked opportunities for American artists and the role of political and Jewish refugees in enriching music education and training in this country In addition the author discusses thoroughly the founding of the New York City Opera the rise of regional and smaller opera companies including the enterprising and popular Lemonade Opera and advancements for African American classical singers Brimming with entertaining anecdotes and colorful figures both famous and little remembered the fascinating book concludes with an examination of this crucial period's legacy for the American classical music scene in the 1950s and beyond From Johnson's Kids to Lemonade Opera contains an invaluable appendix that provides biographical sketches of the over 250 opera and radio singers as well as art song specialists featured in this illuminating study

On the Wings of Song Wanda Weiskopf, 1995 As the audience rose in a standing ovation the cast of LUCIA DI LAMMERMOOR took bows signaled appreciation to my husband their orchestra conductor Herbert Weiskopf Then my partner of twenty seven years did something I'd never seen him do before He took a solo curtain call Walking in front of the crimson curtain he held both arms aloft in a gesture of personal victory saluted the orchestra stepped backstage again A day later he was dead This biography is a tribute to a man of principle stature in the music world who influenced many lives careers Living on borrowed time most of his life he felt it was a privilege to give back as much as he could while he was still here In Europe Los Angeles Seattle Portland he worked with great opera performers musicians Known as the maestro to his family as well as his colleagues he encouraged inspired many newcomers many who later became well known To order write to Excellence Enterprises 3040 Aspen Lane Palmdale CA 93550 7985 800 EXC LNCE
