William Christenberry:

William Christenberry J. Richard Gruber, 1996 Throughout The Early Years Christenberry's work is presented as part of an evolutionary series of developments that began with Christenberry's immersion in the Abstract Expressionist philosophies and techniques taught at the University of Alabama during his years as a student there 1954-1959 and continued through his abandonment of painting on canvas 1964 and his inclusion of signs and found objects in the three dimensional constructions he created in Memphis 1964-1968 These constructions marked by the artist's sense of dynamic composition and gestural brushwork and reflecting his awareness of the combines of Robert Rauschenberg and the developing Pop Art sensibility have never been examined prior to this book As J Richard Gruber convincingly demonstrates Christenberry's work evolved in response both to the most advanced art movements of the times and to the changing social and cultural landscape around him

William Christenberry (Signed Edition) William Christenberry, 2006-06 Since the early 1960s William Christenberry has plumbed the regional identity of the American South through his work in Hale County Alabama where he was raised Although he is most often associated with and recognized as a pioneer in American color photography he also works in an unorthodox mix of media that includes sculpture drawing painting and found object assemblage This comprehensive survey of his work considers all those practices together and in doing so gives readers access to the full scope and complexity of his vision In every medium Christenberry's theme is unified the history the story of place is at the heart of his project His poetic documentation of vernacular architecture signage and landscape captures moments of quiet beauty in a sometimes mythic terrain that with its worn iconography and buildings turned ramshackle evokes the form and power of the passage of time Since relocating to Washington D C in 1968 Christenberry has dutifully returned to photograph the same locations annually the green barn the palmist building the Bar B Q Inn fulfilling a personal ritual and documenting the physical changes wrought by the passing of a year More than half the photographs in this comprehensive survey are previously unpublished including new and vintage images and a stunning selection of never before seen Kodachrome work An essay by Walter Hopps the artist's lifelong friend and the founding director of the Menil Collection who passed away in 2005 will draw attention as well William Christenberry, W/P.
