academics who openly and proudly embrace the identity of Mad scholar In twenty three essays from contributors working in nearly a dozen disciplines and across three continents Mad Scholars explores how neurodivergent scholars work and lived experiences are richer because of their difference not in spite of it In doing so these essays both expose the deep rooted ableism that undergirds traditional mental health interventions and envision a more rigorous more inclusive and more outward facing future for scholarly community and engagement within and outside traditional academia A long awaited corrective by scholars accustomed to having their stories told for them this collection draws on Mad perspectives at the intersection of various marginalized identities boldly dreaming of a future where all students and educators can thrive By offering concrete steps and strategies that radically reimagine the current academic landscape Mad Scholars opens our eyes to much needed innovations in research pedagogy and community ones which promise to transform higher education and create vital paths for scholarly innovation
