

DIFFERENCE THRESHOLD

A difference threshold is the lowest amount of change that an individual can detect. It is measured in terms of how many "just noticeable differences" (JNDs) exist between two stimuli.

EXAMPLE: VISION

Subtle shifts of coloring, perceivable to the naked eye, are known as visual thresholds. If two colors are close enough in hue and value, they might not be discernible to the human eye. The minimally perceptible difference between these two similar colors is known as the difference threshold.

ABSOLUTE VS DIFFERENCE

- Absolute threshold: the lowest level of stimulation a person can detect. It is useful for measuring a person's sensitivity to stimuli.
- Difference threshold: the minimum amount of change in a stimulus that an individual can detect.

Cellular Automata Alejandro Salcido, 2011-04-11 Cellular automata make up a class of completely discrete dynamical systems which have become a core subject in the sciences of complexity due to their conceptual simplicity easiness of implementation for computer simulation and their ability to exhibit a wide variety of amazingly complex behavior The feature of simplicity behind complexity of cellular automata has attracted the researchers attention from a wide range of divergent fields of study of science which extend from the exact disciplines of mathematical physics up to the social ones and beyond Numerous complex systems containing many discrete elements with local interactions have been and are being conveniently modelled as cellular automata In this book the versatility of cellular automata as models for a wide diversity of complex systems is underlined through the study of a number of outstanding problems using these innovative techniques for modelling and simulation

Poffenberger, 1920 Measurement Invariance Rens Van De Schoot, Peter Schmidt, Alain De Beuckelaer, 2015-10-05 Multi item surveys are frequently used to study scores on latent factors like human values attitudes and behavior Such studies often include a comparison between specific groups of individuals either at one or multiple points in time If such latent factor means are to be meaningfully compared the measurement structures including the latent factor and their survey items should be stable across groups and or over time that is invariant Recent developments in statistics have provided new analytical tools for assessing measurement invariance MI The aim of this special issue is to provide a forum for a discussion of MI covering some crucial themes 1 ways to assess and deal with measurement non invariance 2 Bayesian and IRT methods employing the concept of approximate measurement invariance and 3 new or adjusted approaches for testing MI to fit increasingly complex statistical models and specific characteristics of survey data The special issue started with a kick off meeting where all potential contributors shared ideas on potential papers This expert workshop was organized at Utrecht University in The Netherlands and was funded by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research NWO VENI 451 11
