William Caxton, the first English printer: a biography Knight Charles 1791-1873,1877 Major Tudor Authors Alan Hager,1997-06-18 The Tudor era 1485 1603 was one of the most culturally significant periods in history Under three generations of Tudor rulers the era witnessed the advent of humanism the birth of the Reformation and the rise of the British Empire The literature of the period is marked by complexity of thought and form and reflects the political religious and cultural changes of the era This reference book surveys the literature of Tudor England Included are alphabetically arranged entries for nearly 100 authors who wrote between 1485 and 1603 Some figures covered are widely taught such as Shakespeare Donne and Spenser Others are less well known such as Edward Fairfax and Abraham Fraunce The work includes entries for notable women writers of the period many of whom have been neglected until recent years Also included are entries for continental writers such as Ariosto Tasso Calvin and Erasmus whose writings were influential in England Entries are written by expert contributors and contain valuable bibliographies of primary and secondary sources Included are entries for nearly 100 people who wrote between 1485 and 1603 The entries are written by expert contributors and are arranged alphabetically to facilitate use Some of the authors profiled are major canonical figures such as Shakespeare Spenser and Donne But the volume also includes a significant number of entries for women writers whose work has been unjustly disregarded until recent years While most of the authors were from England the volume contains entries on figures such as Erasmus who though born in another country wrote important works in England and on writers such as Machiavelli Calvin Ariosto and Tasso whose works were almost immediately adopted translated or otherwise made part of Tudor culture Each entry provides a brief biography which is followed by a discussion of major works and themes a review of the author s critical reception and a bibliography of primary and secondary sources How Invention Begins John H. Lienhard,2006 In How Invention Begins Lienhard reconciles the ends of invention with the individual leaps upon which they are built illuminating the vast web of individual inspirations that lie behind whole technologies He traces for instance the way in which thousands of people applied their combined genius to airplanes trains and automobiles revealing how a collective desire an

upwelling of fascination a spirit of the times a Zeitgeist laid its hold upon inventors The thing they all sought to create was speed itself Can we speak of speed as an invention To do so he concludes is certainly no greater a stretch than to call the car an invention

Jan van Eyck and Portugal's 'Illustrious Generation' Barbara von Barghahn, 2013-12-31 This book investigates Jan Van Eyck's patronage by the Crown of Portugal and his role as diplomat painter for the Duchy of Burgundy following his first voyage to Lisbon in 1428-1429 when he painted two portraits of Infanta Isabella who became the third wife of Philip the Good in 1430 New portrait identifications are provided for the Ghent Altarpiece 1432 and its iconographical prototype the lost Fountain of Life These altarpieces are analysed with regard to King Joao I's conquest of Ceuta achieved by his sons who were hailed as an illustrious generation Strong family ties between the dynastic houses of Avis and Lancaster explain Lusitania's sustained fascination with Arthurian lore and the Grail quest Several chapters of this book are overlaid with a chivalric veneer A second secret mission to Portugal in 1437 by Jan van Eyck is postulated and this diplomatic visit is related to Prince Henry the Navigator's expedition to Tangier and King Duarte's attempts to forge an alliance with Alfonso V of Aragon Late Eyckian commissions are reviewed in the light of this ill-fated crusade and additional new portraits are identified The most significant artist of Renaissance Flanders appears to have been patronized as much by the House of Avis as by the Duchy of Burgundy Barbara von Barghahn is Professor of Art History at George Washington University and a specialist in the art history of Portugal Spain and their colonial dominions as well as Flanders In 1993 she was conferred O Grao Comendador in the Portuguese Order of Prince Henry the Navigator She has spent nearly a decade completing research about Jan van Eyck's diplomatic visits to the Iberian Peninsula

The Incunabala print from Oxford and St. Albans Michael Gärtner, 2004-01-28 Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 2 B University of Münster English Seminar course Hauptseminar Early printing in England Wynkyn de Worde language English abstract This paper is about the printing of incunabula in the old medieval cities of Oxford and St Albans The former was a centre of learning the latter a centre of religion Caxton who lived and worked in Westminster brought the craft of book printing from the continent and set up the first press in England By far the most important part of the printing was done in London although it is true that at certain times France the Low Countries and Switzerland made important contributions to the English book market Moreover a variety of centres in England such as Oxford St Albans Canterbury York and Cambridge were responsible for some printing Nevertheless their output was small and many presses went bankrupt The first presses were founded by outstanding craftsmen trying to serve the needs of the market and assuming all the risks of production and sale However printing in England can only be considered against the background of trade with the Continent The name of the first English printer varies from Theodorich to Dietrich Rood but the same person is meant Thomas Hunt and the schoolmaster of St Alban's seem to be the exceptions to the rule that printers in the British Isles were French Netherlandish or German by birth until Andrew Myllar began to print in Edinburgh and John Rastell in London 2 Oxford University Press is today one of the finest publishing houses in the world It dates back to 1585 when printing there became firmly established 3 However there existed two presses long before that date and there was a press in St Albans for a short time too
