Steelworker Alley How Class Works In Youngstown:

Steelworker Alley Robert Bruno, 1999 The son of a Youngstown steelworker Bruno returned to his hometown seeking to understand the formation of his own working class consciousness and the place of labor in the larger capitalist society Drawing on interviews with dozens of former steelworkers and on research in local archives Bruno explores the culture of the community including such subjects as relations among coworkers class antagonism and attitudes toward authority He describes how because workers are often neighbors the workplace takes on a feeling of neighborhood He also demonstrates that to understand class consciousness one must look beyond the workplace in this instance from Youngstown's front porches to its bowling alleys and voting booths

Closing Chapters Thomas G. Welsh, 2011-12-16 Closing Chapters attempts to explain the disintegration of urban parochial schools in Youngstown Ohio a onetime industrial center that lost all but one of its eighteen Catholic parochial elementary schools between 1960 and 2006 Through this examination of Youngstown Welsh sheds light on a significant national phenomenon the fragmentation of American Catholic identity

What Work Is Robert Bruno, 2024-01-09 A distinctive exploration of how workers see work For more than twenty years Robert Bruno has taught labor history and labor studies to union members from a wide range of occupations and demographic groups In the class he asked his students to finish the question Work is in six words or less The thousands of responses he collected provide some of the rich source material behind What Work Is Bruno draws on the thoughts and feelings experienced by workers in the present day to analyze how we might design a future of work He breaks down perceptions of work into five categories work and time the space workers occupy the impact of work on our lives the sense of purpose that motivates workers and the people we work for in all senses of the term Far seeing and sympathetic What Work Is merges personal experiences with research poetry and other diverse sources to illuminate workers lives in the present and envision what work could be in the future

Walley, 2013-01-17 Winner of CLR James Book Prize from the Working Class Studies Association and 2nd Place for the Victor Turner Prize in Ethnographic Writing In 1980 Christine J Walley s world was turned upside down when the steel mill in Southeast Chicago where her father worked abruptly closed In the ensuing years ninety thousand other area residents would also lose their jobs in the mills just one example of the vast scale of deindustrialization occurring across the United States The disruption of this event propelled Walley into a career as a cultural anthropologist and now in Exit Zero she brings her anthropological perspective home examining the fate of her family and that of blue collar America at large Interweaving personal narratives and family photos with a nuanced assessment of the social impacts of deindustrialization Exit Zero is one part memoir and one part ethnography providing a much needed female and familial perspective on cultures of labor and their decline Through vivid accounts of her family's struggles and her own upward mobility Walley reveals the social landscapes of America's industrial fallout navigating complex tensions among class labor economy and environment Unsatisfied with the notion that her family's turmoil was inevitable in the ever forward progress of the United States she provides a fresh and important counternarrative that gives a new voice to the many Americans whose distress resulting from deindustrialization has too often been ignored This book is part of a project that also includes a documentary film Who Says? William DeGenaro,2007-01-21 In Who Says scholars of rhetoric composition and communications seek to revise the elitist rhetorical tradition by analyzing diverse topics such as settlement house movements and hip hop culture to uncover how communities use discourse to construct working class identity The contributors examine the language of workers at a concrete pour depictions of long haul truckers a comic book series published by the CIO the transgressive fat bodies of Roseanne and Anna Nicole Smith and even reality television to provide rich insights into working class rhetorics The chapters identify working class tropes and discursive strategies and connect working class identity to issues of race gender and sexuality Using a variety of approaches including ethnography research in historic archives and analysis of case studies Who Says assembles an original and comprehensive collection that is accessible to both students and scholars of class studies and rhetoric International Labor and Working Class History,2000 Left History,2001 Mitteilungsblatt des Instituts für Soziale Bewegungen,2000 Steellabor,1998 Historical Studies in Industrial Relations,2000 Labour History,2002 XCP,2001 Industrial & Labor Relations Review,1999 A Nation Made of Steel Thomas Joseph Sabatini,2006 Current contents Arts and Humanities,2002 Industrial Relations,2000 The Heat Jimmy Santiago Baca,Stacy James,2001 A collection of short stories written by steelworkers under the guidance of award winning poet Jimmy Santiago Baca These voices of the working class describe what it's like to spend a lifetime in the shadow of America's steel mills The Heat offers a rare last glimpse inside the huge old abandoned plants that now litter the rust belt landscape
