A History of New Zealand Women Barbara Brookes, 2016-02-15 What would a history of

New Zealand look like that rejected Thomas Carlyle's definition of history as the biography of great men and focused instead on the experiences of women. One that shifted the angle of vision and examined the stages of this country's development from the points of view of wives, daughters, mothers, grandmothers, sisters, and aunts. That considered their lives as distinct from though often unwillingly influenced by those of history's great men. In her ground-breaking History of New Zealand Women, Barbara Brookes provides just such a history. This is more than an account of women in New Zealand from those who arrived on the first waka to the Grammy and Man Booker Prize winning young women of the current decade. It is a comprehensive history of New Zealand seen through a female lens. Brookes argues that while European men erected the political scaffolding to create a small nation, women created the infrastructure necessary for colonial society to succeed. Concepts of home, marriage, and family brought by settler women and integral to the developing state transformed the lives of Māori women. The small scale of New Zealand society facilitated rapid change so that by the twenty-first century, women are no longer defined by family contexts. In her long-awaited book, Barbara Brookes traces the factors that drove that change. Her lively narrative draws on a wide variety of sources to map the importance in women's lives, not just of legal and economic changes but of smaller joys such as the arrival of a piano from England or the freedom of riding a bicycle.

This book for the GSIS emphasizes main thematic areas: manufacturing services and user experience. Main areas of coverage include: Section A: Advanced Production Management and Production Control; Section B: Healthcare Automation; Section C: Measuring and Modeling Human Performance; Section D: Usability and User Experience; Section E: Safety Management and Occupational Ergonomics; Section F: Manufacturing and Services; Section G: Data and Probabilistic Information; Section H: Training and Collaboration Technologies. Contributions from especially early career researchers were featured as part of this virtual symposium and celebration. Gavriel Salvendy initiated the conferences that run annually as Human-Computer Interaction International and Applied Human Factors and Ergonomics International (AHFE) both within the Lecture Notes in Computer Science series. The book is inclusive of human-computer interaction and human factors and ergonomics principles yet it is intended to serve a much wider audience that has interest in automation and human modeling. The emerging need for human automation interaction expertise has developed from an ever-growing availability and presence of automation in our everyday lives.
