Rethinking Technology in Schools Primer Vanessa Elaine Domine, 2009 Among the many challenges facing public schooling in the United States is the often irrelevant usage of technology in the classroom in ways that support the textbook and computer industries more than student learning and achievement This primer reframes the longstanding debate about instructional technology in school classrooms and challenges the reader to think more critically and conscientiously about the fundamental communication and technological processes that mediate learning and ultimately define education The primer offers educators at all levels a three dimensional map for exploring the philosophical pedagogical and practical uses of technology to serve rather than subvert the public purposes of education in a democracy Resources in Education ,1998

Professional Development for Technology Integration: A Study of the Impact on Concerns and Levels of Use Carmen Lindsey Weaver, 2012 For teachers to successfully prepare students for the current job market and adhere to current legislation they must integrate technology into their curriculum Preparing teachers for this challenge is of great importance However the professional development provided to teachers for this purpose is most often inadequate The purpose of this research was to study teachers perceptions of their readiness to implement new technology with the curriculum The views of teachers who had and who had not participated in prescribed technology integration professional development were examined The research included a study of their concerns about the anticipated one to one technology initiative at their school and how these concerns may have changed through participation in the prescribed professional development It also included a study of their current technology use and their plans for change with the one to one initiative The study asked how professional development related to teachers concerns regarding technology integration and what differences in technology use exist between teachers who had and had not participated in the professional development This mixed methods study examined quantitative data collected through SEDL s Stages of Concern Questionnaire SoCQ and qualitative data through SEDL s Levels of Use LoU interview protocol Through the analysis of data differences in the two groups responses on the SoCQ and LoU instruments were observed Differences in the data collected from the two groups through the SoCQ were not found to be statistically significant however there were observable differences The themes of use of technology tools technology integration and perceptions of readiness emerged through analysis of data collected through the LoU The findings of this study contribute to the existing body of literature in two significant ways First the findings support the literature on 21st century learning environments and the benefits and barriers of technology integration Second the findings provide support for the characteristics of effective professional development for technology integration The implications of this research are important to legislators school administrators and technology coordinators teacher educators and classroom teachers
