Usewear Analysis And Obsidian:

Use Wear Analysis and Obsidian Linda M. Hurcombe,1992-01 This volume investigates a technique for the functional analysis of obsidian tools and a small archaeological case study the lunates from the Bronze Age Sardinian site of Ortu Comidu is examined using the technique and approach It reviews the current state of flint use wear studies and applies the theories generated there to obsidian The experimental programme shows the potential success of the technique which can allow the use action and use material to be interpreted and demonstrates the limitations Residues play an important role as they are more easily seen on obsidian than flint The discussion includes an assessment of wear formation theories and the role of functional information within archaeology The technique and approach is brought to bear on a small archaeological case study the lunates from the Bronze Age Sardinian site of Ortu Comidu Use-Wear and Residue Analysis in Archaeology

Eren,Briggs Buchanan,2022-07-18 Calculating the diversity of biological or cultural classes is a fundamental way of describing analyzing and understanding the world around us Understanding archaeological diversity is key to understanding human culture in the past Archaeologists have long experienced a tenuous relationship with statistics however the regular integration of diversity measures and concepts into archaeological practice is becoming increasingly important This volume includes chapters that cover a wide range of archaeological applications of diversity measures Featuring studies of archaeological diversity ranging from the data driven to the theoretical from the Paleolithic to the Historic periods authors illustrate the range of data sets to which diversity measures can be applied as well as offer new methods to examine archaeological diversity An Experimental Approach and Use-wear Analysis of an Obsidian

Assemblage from the Coromandel, New Zealand Rose A. Young, 2019 Most studies of M ori socio economy have claimed there was a major shift in the subsistence strategy mobility degree and settlement pattern over time but have not been explicit in how these changes are visible in stone artefact assemblages This thesis investigates how use wear and a technological analysis of obsidian artefacts can be used as a proxy for detecting change or a lack of change in mobility degree and settlement systems at one site A range of experiments were conducted to demonstrate how use wear appears and to provide examples to compare with archaeological flakes A sample of flakes from a M ori site in the Waitapu area located on Great Mercury Island off the coast of the North Island New Zealand was technologically analysed and examined for use wear The site has two periods of occupation and obsidian artefacts from both contexts were analysed to allow for a comparison When compared the results from the two temporal contexts show there was no significant difference in the average extent of use wear nor the proportion of used artefacts Flake selection is indicated with used flakes significantly larger than those that lack use wear The results from this thesis are not able to support the suggestions of substantial shifts in M ori socio economy in the Waitapu area and so provides an example for future use wear studies in New Zealand Tebiwa ,1995
