The Policy Implementation Process In Developing Nations:

The Policy Implementation Process in Developing Nations Stuart S. Nagel, 1999-10-18 Focuses on the policy implementation process in developing nations This work attempts to better understand how political and administrative institutions of particular countries effect their domestic policy implementation process Politics and Policy Implementation in the Third World Merilee S. Grindle, 2017-03-14 This book addresses the broader questions of how both the content and the context of public policy affect its implementation Through a series of case studies from Mexico Peru Brazil Colombia Zambia Kenya and India ten scholars here demonstrate that numerous factors intervene between the statement of policy goals and their actual achievement in society Originally published in 1980 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Public Policy and Development in Developing Nations: Selected Cases Ola Abegunde, 2015-10-07 Public policy analysis has been an area of great interest in Political Science and Public Administration The contributions of scholars like Yehezkel Dror Thomas Dye Bruce Doern and others have helped to examine the style and approaches that have added to our understanding of public policies In this collection of fourteen essays public policy is examined in ranging environments Greece Zimbabwe Nigeria and South Africa The policies of these countries and some other issues relating to social security poverty welfare consumer rights are covered The first paper introduces us to the differences between public and private policies and shows the importance of giving the right place to the former in the orderly society Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post-conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region Muslih Irwani, 2015-10-19 Clientelism and Implementing Social Security Programmes in Post conflict Iraqi Kurdistan Region investigates social policy in a politically less developed entity and examines the mainstream top down and bottom up models of policy implementation in light of a detailed study of the Kurdistan Regional Government In addition it introduces the innovative clientelistic model of policy implementation a political and preferential tool which utilises a public nationalistic dichotomy in social welfare provision The book argues that politicians in the Kurdistan region deal with social policy programmes according to their political preferences attaching importance to policies on the basis of the way they feel about those social programmes and interest groups concerned As such as it stands policy implementation is subject to interference by politicians and high government officials under the pretext of supporting and monitoring the way such policy is implemented Through an investigation of the most prominent actors in the implementation of social security programmes this book demonstrates how beneficiaries of these programmes can themselves become focal points in the implementation process Indeed within the Kurdistan Regional Government s social policy context today the benefits of social security schemes are being distributed based on the socio political status of recipients not on their socio economic conditions and needs in Developing Countries I. Arnon, 1987 Until quite recently agriculture in most developing countries of the Third World has been largely neglected by policy makers economists and planners on the assumption that most resources should be devoted to industry However there is a growing realization that without progress in agriculture there will be economic stagnation inadequate food production and the vicious circle of poverty and low productivity will be perpetuated The great hopes pinned on the Green Revolution have only been partially realized and any success is still confined to a fraction of the areas in need of development Where the Green Revolution has been successful many problems have arisen in its wake some being anticipated but others not of which potentially the most explosive are the increasing gaps between various sectors in the rural population and between regions
