A Realistic Universe John Elof Boodin, 1916 A Realistic Universe An Intro To Metaphysics by John Elof Boodin first published in 1916 is a rare manuscript the original residing in one of the great libraries of the world This book is a reproduction of that original which has been scanned and cleaned by state of the art publishing tools for better readability and enhanced appreciation Restoration Editors mission is to bring long out of print manuscripts back to life Some smudges annotations or unclear text may still exist due to permanent damage to the original work We believe the literary significance of the text justifies offering this reproduction allowing a new generation to appreciate it Representing Time Katarzyna Jaszczolt, 2009 This book offers a new approach to the representation of meaning of temporally located utterances and discourses Temporality the author suggests should be taken to mean degrees of certainty understood in turn as degrees of acceptability concerning the eventuality referred to in the speaker s utterance Essentials of Cognitive Grammar Ronald W. Langacker, 2013-02-28 Tailored to students this abridged version of Cognitive Grammar positions Langacker s authoritative work as an accessible attractive cornerstone of cognitive linguistics as the field continues to evolve

Representing Time Kasia M. Jaszczolt, 2009-02-26 Thinking and speaking about time is ridden with puzzles and paradoxes How do human beings conceptualize time Why for example does the availability of tense vary in different languages How do the lines of information from tense aspect temporal adverbs and context interact in the mind Does time describe events If real time does not flow where do the concepts of the past present and future come from Are they basic concepts or are they composed out of more primitive constituents And finally what is the semantics of expressions with temporal reference This book offers a new approach to the representation of meaning of temporally located utterances and discourses Temporality the author suggests should be taken to mean degrees of certainty understood in turn as degrees of acceptability concerning the eventuality referred to in the speaker s utterance She presents theoretical arguments and empirical evidence from Indo European and non Indo European languages to show that speakers represent the past present and future as degrees of epistemic modality She argues that temporality can be subsumed under the general label of acceptability or attitude and rather like the semantic category of evidentiality founded on the strength of evidence In the approach she develops modality provides basic conceptual building blocks for the concept of time and at the same time semantic building blocks for representing temporal expressions in her framework of Default Semantics Dr Jaszczolt sets the results of her research in the context of linguistic and philosophical work in semantics and pragmatics Proceedings of the Society for Psychical
