The Last Hurrah:

The Last Hurrah Edwin O'Connor, 2016-04-25 A corrupt mayor runs his final campaign in this remarkably intelligent informed well conceived and highly readable classic novel Chicago Tribune We're living in a sensitive age Cuckoo and I'm not altogether sure you're fully attuned to it So says Irish American politician Frank Skeffington a cynical corrupt 1950s mayor and also an old school gentleman who looks after the constituents of his New England city and enjoys their unwavering loyalty in return But in our age of dynasties mercurial social sensitivities and politicians making love to the camera Skeffington might as well be talking to us Not quite a roman clef of notorious Boston mayor James Michael Curley The Last Hurrah tells the story of Skeffington's final campaign as witnessed through the eyes of his nephew who learns a great deal about politics as he follows his uncle to fundraisers wakes and into smoke filled rooms ultimately coming almost against his will to admire the man Adapted into a 1958 film starring Spencer Tracy and directed by John Ford and which Curley tried to keep from being made Edwin O'Connor's opus reveals politics as it really is and big cities as they really were An expansive humorous novel offering deep insight into the Irish American experience and the ever changing nature of the political machine The Last Hurrah reveals political truths still true today what the cameras capture is just the smiling face of the sometimes sordid business of giving the people what they want Praise for The Last Hurrah The best novel about American politics and the best novel about Irish Americans I have ever read New York Times A splendid inside job on big city politics It establishes O'Connor as one of our most gifted interpreters of American life Chicago Tribune In today's soulless prefabricated follow the polling data political environment The Last Hurrah is a reminder of where we came from and how we got here O'Connor's marking of the end of an era is still relevant prescient in its gloomy foretelling of cultural change The Last Hurrah is the rich story of personality and class driven politics now footnotes in contemporary culture Boston Globe

The Irish Voice in America Charles Fanning, In this study Charles Fanning has written the first general account of the origins and development of a literary tradition among American writers of Irish birth or background who have explored the Irish immigrant or ethnic experience in works of fiction The result is a portrait of the evolving fictional self consciousness of an immigrant group over a span of 250 years Fanning traces the roots of Irish American writing back to the eighteenth century and carries it forward through the traumatic years of the Famine to the present time with an intensely productive period in the twentieth century beginning with James T Farrell Later writers treated in depth include Edwin O Connor Elizabeth Cullinan Maureen Howard and William Kennedy Along the way he places in the historical record many all but forgotten writers including the prolific Mary Ann Sadlier The Irish Voice in America is not only a highly readable contribution to American literary history but also a valuable reference to many writers and their works For this second edition Fanning has added a chapter that covers the fiction of the past decade He argues that contemporary writers continue to draw on Ireland as a source and are important chroniclers of the modern American experience

The John Ford Encyclopedia Sue Matheson, 2019-12-02 The winner of four Academy Awards for directing John Ford is considered by many to be America s greatest native born director Ford helmed some of the most memorable films in American cinema including The Grapes of Wrath, How Green Was My Valley and The Quiet Man as well as such iconic westerns as Stagecoach, My Darling Clementine, She Wore a Yellow Ribbon, The Searchers and The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance. In The John Ford Encyclopedia, Sue Matheson provides readers with detailed information about the acclaimed director's films from the silent era to the 1960s. In more than 400 entries, this volume covers not only the films Ford directed and produced but also the studios for which he worked, his preferred shooting sites, his World War II documentaries, and the men and women with whom he collaborated, including actors, screenwriters, technicians, and stuntmen. Eleven newly discovered members of the John Ford Stock Company are also included. Encompassing the entire range of the director's career from his start in early cinema to his frequent work with national treasure John Wayne, this is a comprehensive overview of one of the most highly regarded filmmakers in history. The John Ford Encyclopedia will be of interest to professors, students, and the many fans of the director's work.

The Last Hurrah Edwin O'Connor, 1961. The last hurrah describes the life of a typical old style political boss, Frank Skeffington, who has kept his power as mayor of a large eastern U.S. city for almost 40 years. During the course of his last campaign, he is seen not only as the corrupt grafter, ruthless with his enemies, but also as a man of infinite charm who truly loved his city. The edge of sadness, the second novel of this book, is a perceptive study of the working of God's grace in the lives of a pastor and his charges, second and third generation Irish immigrants in a decaying parish in a thinly disguised Boston.

A Family of His Own Charles F. Duffy, 2003. A family of his own covers Edwin O'Connor's comfortable upbringing in Rhode Island, his formation at Notre Dame, his obscure years in radio and the Coast Guard during World War II, his adoption of Boston, his long association with his publishers at Atlantic Monthly and Little Brown and Company, his toil in journalism and television, reviewing his several sojourns in Ireland, and his extraordinary dedication to his craft while living close to poverty. For the years after The Last Hurrah, Duffy examines O'Connor's handling of newfound wealth and celebrity, his growing loneliness, the surprise and fulfillment of a late marriage, his failure on Broadway, and his return to fiction. Throughout his writing, O'Connor's major subject was the family, especially the gains, losses, and conflicts within assimilated Irish America. Duffy examines the complex ways by which O'Connor's own experience of family and friendship formed essential patterns in his works.
