Youth Beyond the Developmental Lens Wesley W. Ellis, 2024-01-23 What happens when we stop thinking of young people as projects and recognize them for who they are here and now Wesley Ellis exposes the insidious impact of developmental psychology upon youth ministry and practice arguing instead for a theological anthropology of youth that can help us see all people including adolescents as uniquely created in the image of God Propelled by the conviction that ministry requires us to see youth as beings rather than becomings Ellis demonstrates how we can reorient our vision toward ministry that prioritizes relationship and inclusion over rigid developmental frameworks A veteran youth minister across multiple denominations Ellis knows his subject deeply as both practitioner and theologian Youth beyond the Developmental Lens mines personal accounts the biblical narrative and a vast array of theological expertise to release readers from restrictive assumptions that have long bound youth ministry Ellis s finely tuned pastoral sensibilities bring all these elements into focus helping us understand ministry as relational and all humans as part of God s story Rostered ministers lay leaders and others engaged with youth will find an antidote to anxiety about the future of the church Ellis reminds us that God is here already Our call is simply to be

Theology, Psychoanalysis, Trauma Marcus Pound, 2007 The Veritas Series from SCM Press and the Centre for Theology and Philosophy at Nottingham University brings to market original volumes all engaging in critical questions of pressing concern to both philosophers theologians biologists economists and more Each book in this new series displays a rigorous theological critique of categories of study not often thought to be theological in character The series aims to illustrate that without theology something essential is lost in our account of such categories not only in an abstract way but in the way in which we inhabit the world The Veritas Series refuses to accept disciplinary isolation both for theology and for other disciplines Marcus Pound's first book is the most important sustained reflection on the relation of theology and psychoanalysis to date His approach is admirably focused since it compares the ideas of the theological founder of the complex motivational psychology Soren Kierkegaard with those of the most sophisticated secular psychoanalytical theorists Jacques Lacan In doing so Pound offers in a short compass both a psychological deepening of theological orthodoxy and a theological critique of psychoanalysis as such Future engagement with this area must begin with this lucid subtle and brilliant treatise John Milbank
