Vehicle Compatibility in Automotive Crashes Stanley H Backaitis, 2005-03-29 For years reducing the number of traffic related fatalities and injuries has been a major problem throughout the world Today it has gained much more momentum in view of rapidly increasing SUV van and light truck populations relative to the number of passenger cars and due to significant improvements in technologies that facilitate a better understanding of the interaction dynamics among widely differing size vehicles Unless disparities in crashworthiness among vehicles of different masses sizes and structural characteristics in mixed crash environments are successfully taken into account the challenge toward improved vehicle safety will continue This two part compendium provides the most comprehensive information available on the entire spectrum of vehicle crash compatibility The first part presents oral comments captured from the 2003 SAE World Congress panel discussion on compatibility The panel of leading experts representing industry academia and government provides a rough framework and a broad range of views on current and emerging developments in compatibility research The second part of this compendium features 44 best technical papers from SAE International and the International Technical Conference on the Enhanced Safety of Vehicles published from the early 1970s through 2004 Readers will get a feel for the direction passenger car and heavy vehicle manufacturers research institutions infrastructure suppliers insurers and governments are taking to reduce the number of traffic fatalities and injuries World Report on Road Traffic Injury Prevention Marjorie Peden, 2008-09 Every day thousands of people are killed and injured on our roads Millions of people each year will spend long weeks in the hospital after severe crashes and many will never be able to live work or play as they used to do Current efforts to address road safety are minimal in comparison to this growing human suffering This report presents a comprehensive overview of what is known about the magnitude risk factors and impact of road traffic injuries and about ways to prevent and lessen the impact of road crashes Over 100 experts from all continents and different sectors including transport engineering health police education and civil society have worked to produce the report Charts and tables

Fatal Exit Thomas M. Kowalick, 2005-01-28 FATAL EXIT is the first and only book documenting the decades long debate among the automotive industry government regulators and safety and privacy advocates over what the public terms automobile black boxes The book briefly traces the history of the debate from 1974 to 2004 and then clearly presents opposing viewpoints for and against the widespread use of emerging Motor Vehicle Event Data Recorder MVEDR technology The arguments are followed by proposals to proceed with developing and utilizing the technology in ways that are both effective and respectful of individual privacy The reader of this book will be able to develop an informed opinion as to the usefulness of MVEDRs and thus contribute intelligently to the debate as the United States Congress considers legislation that mandates this technology In the United States 220 935 000 registered owners of motor vehicles are becoming aware of black box technology through newspaper and magazine articles and television news stories Many understand that these boxes already exist in 40 million cars Yet motorists still have many questions and concerns about widespread use of the technology As the only book of its kind written by an insider and expert on the subject FATAL EXIT provides an invaluable resource for anyone interested in why these devices have caused such international controversy

Lives Saved by the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards and Other Vehicle Safety Technologies, 1960-2002 National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 2013-09-12 The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration NHTSA began to evaluate its federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards FMVSS in 1975 By October 2004 NHTSA had evaluated the effectiveness of virtually all the life saving technologies introduced in passenger cars pickup trucks sport utility vehicles and vans from about 1960 up through the later 1990 s A statistical model estimated the number of lives saved from 1960 to 2002 by the combination of these life saving technologies FARS data for 1975 2002 document the actual crash fatalities in vehicles that especially in recent years include many safety technologies Using NHTSA s published effectiveness estimates the model estimates how many people would have died if the vehicles had not been equipped with any of the safety technologies In addition to equipment meeting specific FMVSS the model tallies lives saved by installations in advance of the FMVSS back to 1960 and by non compulsory improvements such as the redesign of mid and lower instrument panels FARS data have been available since 1975 but an extension of the model allows estimates of lives saved in 1960 1974 The annual number of lives saved grew quite steadily from 1960 to 2002 when most cars and light trucks were equipped with numerous modern safety technologies and belt use on the road
