Neurodegenerative Diseases Uday Kishore, 2013-05-15 This book highlights the pathophysiological complexities of the mechanisms and factors that are likely to be involved in a range of neuroinflammatory and neurodegenerative diseases including Alzheimer's disease, other Dementia, Parkinson Diseases and Multiple Sclerosis. The spectrum of diverse factors involved in neurodegeneration such as protein aggregation, oxidative stress, caspases and secretase regulators, cholesterol, zinc, microglia, astrocytes, oligodendrocytes etc have been discussed in the context of disease progression. In addition, novel approaches to therapeutic interventions have also been presented. It is hoped that students, scientists and clinicians shall find this very informative book immensely useful and thought provoking.

Toward a New Science of Educational Testing and Assessment Harold Berlak, Fred M. Newmann, Elizabeth Adams, Doug A. Archbald, Tyrell Burgess, John Raven, Thomas A. Romberg, 1992-01-01 The authors of this book question the assumptions of the psychometric paradigm that underlie virtually all criterion-referenced and standardized tests used in North American schools. They make a compelling case for a new science of educational testing and assessment, one that shifts decision-making from central administration to individual schools and communities. Harold Berlak argues that the concept of tests as scientific instruments validated by technical experts is anachronistic and self-contradictory. He makes a case for a contextual paradigm, an approach which assumes that consensus on educational goals and national testing programs is neither possible nor desirable. Assessment practices in a democratic society must acknowledge and affirm differences in values, beliefs, and material interests among individuals and groups over the purposes and practices of schooling.
