Marshall, 1980 Making the Soldier Decisive on Future Battlefields National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Army Science and Technology, Committee on Making the Soldier Decisive on Future Battlefields, 2013-05-10 The U S military does not believe its soldiers sailors airmen and marines should be engaged in combat with adversaries on a level playing field Our combat individuals enter engagements to win To that end the United States has used its technical prowess and industrial capability to develop decisive weapons that overmatch those of potential enemies In its current engagement what has been identified as an era of persistent conflict the nation s most important weapon is the dismounted soldier operating in small units Today s soldier must be prepared to contend with both regular and irregular adversaries Results in Iraq and Afghanistan show that while the U S soldier is a formidable fighter the contemporary suite of equipment and support does not afford the same high degree of overmatch capability exhibited by large weapons platforms yet it is the soldier who ultimately will play the decisive role in restoring stability Making the Soldier Decisive on Future Battlefields establishes the technical requirements for overmatch capability for dismounted soldiers operating individually or in small units It prescribes technological and organizational capabilities needed to make the dismounted soldier a decisive weapon in a changing uncertain and complex future environment and provides the Army with 15 recommendations on how to focus its efforts to enable the soldier and tactical small unit TSU to achieve overmatch
